1000 Fight 4 Fires on Cape

Forest fires roared over Cape Cod both above and below the canal today with more than 1000 fire fighters battling flames in Bourne, Sagamore and Falmouth. At least four fires broke out within a half hour period, the most serious headed over a seven-mile-square area toward Camp Edwards.

High Winds Fan Fires in Saugus And Waltham

Fanned by high winds, brush fires raged today in Saugus and Waltham as volunteers joined firemen in attempting to get the flames under control to save residential sections.

In Saugus more than 100 volunteers and regular fire fighters battled a fire sweeping the Golden Hill section where 25 acres had already been burnt black. Fire Chief George B. Drew said the fire was the worst of its type he has ever seen.

He said firemen were hampered by lack of water and had to resort to "backfires" to fight the blaze, centered in the Breakheart reservation near the Melrose line.

Three fires were burning in Waltham. The most serious swept a 30-acre tract in North Waltham, menacing farmhouses. In the forenoon the fire spread along Prospect Hill and the Angelside section.

At Leominster three firemen were slightly injured fighting a 60-acre brush fire.

JAP POW CHIEF GIVES UP

TOKYO, April 19 (AP)—Gen. Hiroshi Tamura, former head of the Japanese prisoners of war information bureau, surrendered to American authorities today as a war crimes suspect.

Every fireman, policeman and volunteer in a 35-mile stretch from the Plymouth line to Falmouth was on the job as well as all available men and apparatus from Camp Edwards.

Aid was summoned from distant spots, with two pieces of apparatus arriving at Bourne from as far away as Hull.

The big blaze headed toward Edwards started just south of the canal at Bourne and, fanned by brisk winds, roared out of control along the seven-mile stretch that is all woodlands.

At Sagamore, forest fires were blazing south and north of the canal bridge. A wide area was burning at Sagamore Highlands.

To the north, flames were centered in an area about three miles square from the bridge north to the Plymouth line.

Still another big fire sped through woodlands at East Falmouth, endangering summer cottages and the camps and shacks of cranberry workers. This fire started along the Davisville rd. and speedily swept over a three-mile area, headed for the center of Falmouth, only four miles away.

Fire departments all over the Cape were handicapped. No community could expect much help from neighboring towns since all were beset with their own menacing troubles.

Main roads were heavily traveled by holiday traffic, which was slowed almost to a halt by the dense smoke and flying embers that soared over the old and new roads to the Cape.

Habit Kills Him

WASHINGTON, April 19 (AP)—Through the years, Parlan M. Irwin, 59-year-old telegrapher on the night shift, formed a habit of operating the elevator when he knocked off work at the Southern R. R. building here.

Usually the car was left for him at the fifth floor. Last midnight Irwin, his telephone-operator wife and a messenger, all Southern employes, were leaving together. Irwin opened the door, stepped into the darkened shaft.

The car was at the sixth floor. Irwin was killed.

So. Boston Girl Heroine Of Fire Set by Vandals

Set by vandals, a spectacular fire early today destroyed a vacant building on Orson st., South Boston, threatened the thickly settled residential district and forced firemen to set up a water curtain to save the tenement next door while 12 persons fled to the street.

Heroine of the blaze was 15-year-old Barbara Sweeney who was awakened by the crackling of flames. She aroused Mrs. Lillian McNally, a widow, in the second floor tenement of the house next door and led Katherine McNally, 11, and her sister, Rita, 6, to safety.

Other residents there forced to flee were Mr. and Mrs. Harold Dunton and their three children, Stephanie, 10, Evan, 8, and Elizabeth, 4; and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bason and their daughter, Genevieve, 2.

Flames were shooting from all the windows of the four-story vacant building when apparatus arrived. District Chief John F. Howard said vandals had set fires on each of the four floors.

Because the building had been condemned as unsafe, firemen were forced to battle the blaze from aerial ladders for fear the walls would buckle.

Fifteen persons were driven to the street in another early morning fire in Humboldt ave., Roxbury, when a two-alarm blaze of undetermined origin caused damage of $5000.

In Malden, 13 persons were forced to flee a 2½-story dwelling in Emerald st., in another two-alarm, $5000 fire in which a 14-year-old boy was rescued through dense smoke.

15 Firemen Fall Into Cellar As Worcester Block Burns

WORCESTER, April 19—Fifteen firemen were injured, none of them seriously, when the collapse of the first floor plunged them into the basement of the five-story Dexter building in the heart of the shopping district today as they battled a three-alarm $15,000 blaze.

The fire, caused by an apparent defect in electrical wiring in the building's basement, started shortly before 11 a. m. while the area was crowded with Easter shoppers.

The blaze started in the basement of a chain variety store when William Spence, a store employe, turned on a light. Sparks flew, he said, igniting supplies stored in the cellar, and the fire spread rapidly into adjoining basements.

Several persons, including a woman in a wheelchair, residents of upper floors of the building, were led to safety as smoke filled the structure.

Three alarms were sounded in less than an hour, filling the area with fire apparatus from all parts of the city.

Firemen confined the flames to the cellar but heavy damage from smoke was caused in first floor stores, which included a florist, a dress shop and jewelry store in addition to the variety store.

Lois Andrews Flings Drink In Ex-Hubby's Face at Club

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, April 19 (INS)—The telephone shortage has the most amazing ramifications.

It caused a blazing night club row between Actress Lois Andrews and Singer David Street, who recently severed their marital ties by an annulment in the most peaceful manner.

Hollywood's latest battle of the bistros took place at Slapsy Maxie's gay spot where Lois currently is giving out with jokes and songs for the town's stay-uplaters.

Lois admits she tossed a drink into the face of her ex-spouse. She denies she also slapped him.

"David came into the club with Anne Sterling," she said, "and I was very nice to him. He got a ringside table and I mentioned his name in the show. Afterward I dropped over to ask him to sign a release so I could have the telephone in our apartment.

"All I asked of the guy, when we broke up, was my own name back and the telephone.

"But he said, 'I won't sign anything until my attorney has read it.'"

According to Lois, she saw red, or something, and doused a drink into Street's face.

"It was the first time I ever threw anything at anybody in my life," she said. "I was so scared I went back to my table and shook all evening."

Street was not available for comment.

2 Stowaways Here From Spain, Tunis

Two stowaysone returning here after French authorities refused to allow him ashore at Cherbourg, arrived today aboard the Liberty ship William Byrd from Cherbourg and Swansea, Wales.

Gilbert S. Haddad, 18, of Tunis, North Africa, landed in Baltimore as a stowaway last February. Immigration officials placed him aboard tre William Byrd for France. At Cherbourg officials refused to accept him.

The other is Gotson C. Lauzirka, 19, a Spaniard hired by crewmen as a messman while the ship was in Cherbourg. Five days out he was discovered still aboard.

Both are being held at East Boston Immigration Station.

Slim Crowd At Patriots' Day Parade

Boston and seven Middlesex cities and towns today observed the 171st anniversary of the Revolution with a minimum of enthusiasm and before the smallest turnout in history. There were more police on duty than there were marchers and the modern Paul Revere got off to a start reminiscent of the original lonely ride.

STRUTS HER STUFF—Pretty Dorothy Strachan, 16-year-old Everett drum majorette, struts her stuff as she leads Patriots' Day parade in Lexington.
INP by Harold Williams

The annual celebration, of course, conflicted with Good Friday church devotions which undoubtedly curtailed the first peacetime Patriots' Day observance in five years.

Ralph Maggio of the North End, an ex-Navy commando, depicted Paul Revere, and Lockhardt J. Smith, Jr., ex-Navy flier, re-enacted the ride of William Dawes, Jr., starting in Roxbury.

Maggio rode off on a chestnut charger from Paul Revere mall, Hanover st., carrying a greeting from Mayor Curley for officials of communities along the traditional route to Lexington.

Ex-Marine Anthony Polcari of the North End, a wounded vet, was chief marshal, leading a delegation that observers estimated at not more than 300.

Included were the fire department band, First Service Command M. P.'s, two platoons of Coast Artillery and a scattering of veterans.

Other military detachments and civic and veteran organizations failed to show up, and William J. Shepherd, director of city celebrations, explained units listed on the program agreed only tentatively to participate.

Only 13 persons were seated on benches about Parkman bandstand when the marchers had completed the route through downtown Boston.

Both there and in the North End earlier, Council President Kelly paid a tribute to the veterans of World War II and all other wars of this nation.

"I predict," he said, "that Communism cannot take root and survive here as long as there is a Paul Revere, and such spots as Bunker Hill, Lexington and Concord, where heroism of our soldiers has carved out a niche where freedom can stand."

In Arlington, Brookline, Cambridge, Somerville, Medford and Lexington memorial exercises were held and official welcome extended to the mounted messengers.

Sgt. Jake W. Lindsay, Congressional Medal of Honor hero of World War II, was chief marshal of the forenoon parade in Arlington. The parade was reviewed at the Town Hall.

4 HELD IN TUNA THEFT

Four men were arrested by detectives today in connection with the $8000 theft of tuna fish from the Elm Farm warehouse, Commercial st., North End, on Monday.

Dawes First In; Horse Hurts Aide

Dawes arrived at Lexington Battle Green ahead of Revere, the reverse of schedule today, but it was no fault of Revere.

Lockhart J. Smith, Jr., who depicted Dawes, explained apologetically the riding school that provided horses for him and four outriders objected to the mounts traveling such a distance. A van accompanied them, picking up the horses and riders after they left each community stopping spot. One of the outriders, Lt. Louis West, made the final lap in an automobile after he suffered a crushed foot when his horse stepped on him when the van lurched.

Ralph Maggio of the North End, who played the role of Paul Revere, rode his mount all the way. Owners of the animal were more confident he could make the grade.

1000 In Easter Pageant Atop Oklahoma Mountains

LAWTON, Okla., April 19 (AP)—The holy city of the Wichita Mountains—the annual Easter mecca of thousands—hummed today with final preparations for the 21st annual presentation of a sunrise pageant depicting the life, crucifixion and resurrection of Christ.

Under the direction of the Rev. A. M. Wallock, its founder, the pageant has grown to include 74 speaking parts and 56 scenes with a cast of more than 1000. Some 125 persons will protray angels.

The Easter music hour, first phase of the production, begins at midnight Saturday in the city's great natural amphitheater. The 12-scene prologue starts at 2 a. m. Sunday and the pageant proper at 4 a. m. It will end as dawn breaks over the Holy City.

Because of distances between scenes, the role of Mary, mother of Jesus, is portrayed by four women. One, Mrs. George Rathrock of Marlow, Okla., has taken the part of Christ's mother in every one of the 20 pageants presented.

The only actor whose name is not revealed is the one who portrays the role of Christ.

All Hub in Rites Of Good Friday

Boston churches of all faiths today observed the anniversary of the crucifixon. With altars stripped of linens, flowers and sacred oranments, and tabernacle doors flung open, Catholic churches in the archdiocese marked Good Friday, most solemn day on the religious calendar, commemorating the passion and death of Jesus Christ for the redemption of man.

Many churches conducted three-hour services from noon until 3 p. m., marking the Three Hours' Agony of Christ on the Cross, with discourses on His Seven Last Words.

Today's austere services were in marked contrast to the splendor and brilliance of Holy Thursday rites in remembrance of the institution of the Blessed Sacrament at the Last Supper.

In preparation for today's services, hundreds of volunteer watchers kept all-night vigils in both Catholic and Protestant churches.

Abp. Cushing celebrated Mass of the Pre-Sanctified at 9 a. m., and was to participate in the Three Hours Devotion this afternoon at St. Clement's Church, Back Bay, at a service for the sisters of the Archdiocese.

Thousands prepared to attend the afternoon service at the Cathedral of the Holy Cross, where veneration of a relic of the true cross was to follow the sermon by Rev. W. T. McCracken, assistant director of the Society for the Propagation of the Faith.

Other thousands of the faithful planned to visit other churches throughout the afternoon

In Protestant churches of the city other thousands gathered also for solemn services, beginning at noon with three-hour devotional ceremonies. In St. Paul's Cathedral, beginning at 8 a. m., short services were scheduled every hour on the hour.

At 8 o'clock tonight, nine Back Bay churches will unite in a Good Friday service at the First Baptist Church. Eleven ministers were scheduled to participate in union services at the Second Church in Dorchester.

Today's services bring the holy season of Lent to a climax and lead to the holy Saturday services, a birthday of the Church and a day of blessings. In all Catholic churches, holy Saturday services begin with the kindling and blessing of a new fire, from which candles and lamps, extinguished on Good Friday, are again lighted.

College Girl Drowns in Canoe Upset

Mary C. deCamp, 17-year-old Emerson College student from Philadelphia, drowned today in Naukeg Lake, Ashburnham, when the canoe in which she was paddling with two fellow students capsized.

She was a weekend guest of a fellow student, Ruth Rideout, of Ashburnham.

The Rideout girl and an unidentified Emerson student were with Miss deCamp when the canoe upset in the middle of the lake.

As they were hurled into the water, Miss deCamp floundered and sank while the others, swimming toward shore, were unafare for a time that she had drowned.

The two girls, battling the choppy waters, finally made their way to shore and collapsed on the beach, where they were found by Mrs. Phoebe Rideout, Ruth's mother.

An opponent, Senator Brewster (R.) of Maine, has raised the cry of "State's right" in calling for rejection of the program.

Reveal Charge By MacDonald Against Tobin

By JOHN W. ENGLISH

Full details of an accusation by Public Works Commr Herman A. MacDonald that Gov. Tobin had sought to have the brother of a maid in his household made a public works department foreman were learned today for the first time.

MacDonald's accusation, which was made a week ago during his ouster hearing before Gov. Tobin, was one of two "dishonorable requests" which he charged the Governor had made when the chief executive asked him directly if any such proposals had been made to him.

The charge was glossed over quickly by the Governor during the hearing but it has been learned the promotion was not made because of vigorous opposition by union officials and Civil Service Director Thomas J. Greenan.

The employe in question, William C. Sullivan of Bourne st., Three Rivers, had resigned from the department in 1942 to enter a war plant and had returned to his laborer's job only a few months before the effort was made to promote him late last year.

His recommendation for promotion to foreman prompted a vigorous protest Dec. 10 from Angelo Vozzella, business agent of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes, Massachusetts Public Works Council, in a letter to Maintenance Engineer James E. Lawrence.

Referring to Sullivan's recent return after a three-year absence, he said:

"He apparently spent this time in defense plants, receiving much higher compensation than the employes remaining in the employ of the department and carrying on highway work in crews which were very much undermanned.

"In this particular district we have a number of individuals who have been loyal to the taxpayers by remaining on their jobs for the duration and in particular three laborers in charge, whose next step would be that of foreman. One of these is employed under the same foreman as the laborer proposed for promotion, and they all have seniority.

Vozzella went on to say there was a "moral obligation" involved in giving permanent positions as soon as possible to "loyal" employes who remained on the job at one-third or one-half the pay they could have earned in war plants.

"It is not much of an honor," he continued, "to offer a shovel or pick to our defenders of yesterday, but some individuals are even attempting to deprive our veterans of this lowly employment by employing nonveterans who could not even be loyal to our taxpayers at a time when our highways were an utmost necessity in the war effort.

"Now one of these nonveterans is proposed for promotion. This is certainly a reward in reverse for men with seniority and loyalty."

On Dec. 26, Civil Service Director Greenan wrote to MacDonald informing him there were 30 skilled laborrs, three laborers in charge and 25 laborers with greater seniority and asked why Sullivan was selected for the promotion instead of an employe with greater seniority.

MacDonald wrote back last Jan. 22, in which he had the following to say:

"With reference to the statement that there are a certain number of skilled laborers, laborers in charge and laborers with greater seniority than Mr. Sullivan (whose sister, I understand, is a maid in the Governor's household), may I state that I instructed Mr. Peterson, our personnel officer, to ask Mr. Falvey of the Governor's office to contact you with reference to this appointment made at the request of the Governor?"

Woman Finds $800 On Downtown Street

A handbag containing $800 cash, found on the sidewalk of a busy downtown corner, was turned over to police today by the finder, Mrs. Annie Wolff of Fairbanks st., Brighton, and identified as the property of Mrs. Orville Conrad of Courtney ave., Pawtucket, R. I., who reported her loss last night.

Mrs. Wolff said she spotted the purse near the curb at Washington and Milk sts., downtown, unnoticed by hundreds of Easter shoppers.

She was arrested on a check charge by pals while on her "honeymoon."

2 War Amputees to Show How They Can Hold Jobs

In a convincing demonstration that no veteran need feel useless because he has lost his arms or legs, two ex-soldiers whose limbs were blown off in battlefield explosions are touring New England industrial plants to prove their ability as workers.

The unique team of amputees consists of Charles C. McGonegal of Sunol, Cal., who lost his arms in a grenade explosion in France during the first World War, and Herman Pheffer, 25, of Brooklyn, N. Y., legless as the result of a mine blast on Anzio Beach.

Under American Legion sponsorship, the pair will visit New England factories.

Pheffer, with his artificial legs, can take over a leg-operated machine, while McGonegal shows how an armless man can manipulate his artificial hands to perform a variety of jobs requiring manual skill.

Monday night they will demonstrate before Bay State factory managers and foremen at Gardner auditorium, State House, in a plea for employment of maimed veterans.

Accompanying them are Irving J. Loucraft and Fred Mellin of the Veterans' Employment Bureau, U. S. Employment Service, and John H. Burke, national field secretary of the American Legion.

They will be guests of the Medford A. L. post tomorrow night and the Salem post Sunday.

McGonegal, on arriving here, said he holds Boston warmly in his affections because it was Dr. Joseph Goldthwait of the Back Bay, former brigadier general in charge of orthopedic surgery, AEF, in World War I, who gave him a new start in life after he lost his arms.

Butter Bandits

Thieves today carted away 36 cases of butter, a total of 1252 pounds, after breaking into the Eastern Co-operative Wholesale Co., Inc., Farnsworth st., South Boston. Entrance was gained by smashing a window.

Herman Pheffer, Brooklyn, N. Y., veteran of World War II who lost both legs at Anzio, and Charles McGonegal of California, who lost both arms in France during the first war, show how armless and legless veterans can prove their abilities as workers. They are touring New England plants under the sponsorship of the American Legion.

These Days

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

Copyright, 1946, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

WHEN I LIVED in China, I read about the United States in the local newspapers and it often looked, in those days, as though the leading citizen of our land was Al Capone, the most important industry, murder, and the most usual sport, divorce.

William Benton

Little else was sent by the press agencies, none of whom were, in those days, American.

Then the United Press and subsequently the Associated Press began to sell their services and we got very much better news.

Having personally experienced this propensity on the part of foreign press services and governments to give this country a black eye, I can understand the desire of the State Department through Mr. William Benton to develop an informational service that will, at least, give us an even break.

Unfortunately the OWI did such an appallingly bad job that one distrusts government agencies, particularly a new one staffed mainly by the old crew.

Furthermore, Mr. Benton's demand that the A. P. and the U. P. and the I. N. S. supply him with copy, which he ought to get for himself, is a bad start, for it is at best government competition with private enterprise while using the product of private enterprise without adequate compensation. That is crooked.

Support Gains For Compromise On Spain in UN

NEW YORK, April 19 (AP)—A compromise proposal by Australia gained support today among delegates of the United Nations Security Council.

The proposal, submitted by Australian delegate W. R. Hodgson shortly before the Council adjourned for the Easter holidays, calls for appointment of a five-man subcommittee to investigate the Spanish situation and report back by May 17.

Before the Council resumes its discussions of the Spanish question, however, it will tackle again the Iranian case.

Boy Trying to Wreck N. H. Train Balked

Alertness of a New Haven Railroad train dispatcher thwarted a boy's attempt to wreck a train in the Southampton st. yards today.

The dispatcher, in a tower, saw a boy in a green sweater place a large limb of a tree across tracks traveled by South Shore trains. Police were notified and as a cruiser approached, the boy fled across the yard toward Andrew sq., South Boston.

TO INDICATE how bad such things can be, I have a clipping from The Sunday Statesman of New Delhi, India. It contains a story entitled: "Contradictions in the American Scene. Fascist Tendencies in the Land of Equality."

The author is Stuart Gelder and it is marked exclusive. We looked up Stuart Gelder in "Who's Who," "The Working Press of New York City"—(His dateline was New York)—and inquired of several press associations, but could not find a Stuart Gelder. Maybe, it is a penname.

This is what he says about the United States:

"This country wears two faces. One, which is presented to the world, shines with a benevolent expression of democracy. The other is filled with hate for anyone who dares to try to use his liberty to alter the social and economic status quo. Trade union leaders are always 'agitators,' liberals are 'Communists.'"

That, of course, is a libel on William Green, Phil Murray and other labor leaders who sit in the counsels of the great.

Even Petrillo has not been called an "agitator," although he has been given more fitting and accurate labels.

In New York there are a dozen or more Communist newspapers and magazines it, several languages, published and circulated in complete freedom; there are myriad organizations on all sides of all questions, free to publish whatever they like, to hold mass meetings, to influence elections and denounce their opponents.

Nobody has yet prevented Sidney Hillman, Harold Ickes or Jimmy Roosevelt from building a "liberal" organization to try to win the 1946 congressional election.

AND HERE IS another bit from Mr. Gelder, published in India:

". . . At a signal from their superiors, police mounted on horses and motor cycles, charged into the crowd, clubbing down anyone in their path. In a few minutes they turned what was an organized peaceful walk into a bloody shambles. Men, women and children were trampled under the horses' feet and beneath the wheels of motor cycles, and many were badly hurt . . . It was a revolting and disgraceful spectacle . . ."

This was supposed to have happened in Philadelphia, where there was a strike and some rioting. I wonder if Mr. Gelder could provide a list of the women and children who "were trampled under the horses' feet and beneath the wheels of motor cycles."

Gelder apparently reached the conclusion that Fascism is around the corner in our country.

And I suppose some of the readers in India will believe what he writes. Who is Stuart Gelder—does anyone know?

Adopted Babies Fill Out Bachelor Girl's Life

By MARTHA KEARNEY

WASHINGTON, April 19 (INS)—Blonde, brown-eyed Ann Barley said today she believes two babies make a bachelor girl's life just about complete. Ann is installed in a hotel with her 10 months old son, Patrick, whom she adopted in France. Her two weeks old adopted daughter will leave France soon to complete the bachelor girl menage. Sophisticated, attractive Ann Barley sees nothing unusual in her action. She explained: "I never was conscious of any particular urge for children, but everything seemed right for the adoptions when I left for France. The war was over and I knew there would be a lot of children available.

"Then, too, I inherited some money and I knew I could take care of two children.

"You're tied down with children, I find, but you're too busy to brood over it. I'm much happier now than I was before."

Mrs. Albert C. Barley of Detroit, Mich., approves thoroughly of her daughter's move. Mrs. Barley described Ann as in "her late thirties," although she appears to be much younger.

Age, according to Ann, had a great deal to do with her decision to become a mother by adoption. She said:

"I didn't want to wait until I was too old to really enjoy children. I thought about it for a while, but it is very difficult for a single woman to adopt a child in the United States so I went to Europe. France was the solution to my problem."

As for marriage for herself in the future—Ann giggled. She remarked, half in earnest:

"I guess I'll just have to marry a man who likes French war orphans. Actually a lot of people seem to think that I adopted the children because I plan to marry soon.

"That isn't true. But if I marry I don't think I'll have any reluctance to have children of my own."

She hasn't made up her mind yet whether the children will call her "mother" or "Ann" or, as a matter of fact, whether she is a "modern" mother who rears children by the science books. She said thoughtfully:

"I mostly think I'm an expedient mother. I amuse them when they cry and pick them up if it will stop the noise. I'm crazy about Pat, though, and I know I'll be crazy about the little girl, too."

The little girl's name has not yet been settled; it may be Alex and it may be Andria. Making, altogether, Alexandria.

Taylor wasn't even scratched. The car was damaged some and damage to the building was estimated at $500.

Rep. Luce Not to Run For Any State Office

WASHINGTON, April 19 (AP)—Rep. Clare Luce (R.) of Connecticut, said today she's "standing by" her statement she "is not a candidate for elective office in Connecticut."

Last January Mrs. Luce announced she would retire from public life. Shortly after it was disclosed she had been received into the Roman Catholic Church. She then explained she was retiring because "the question of faith, which all Americans must wish kept out of politics, might be injected by a few cynical persons into a campaign."

ADMITS LIE — Virginia La Vern, 19, admitted in Detroit court she had lied in the trial of Frank Lobaido, 29, who is charged with the criminal assault and attempted murder of Rosalie Giganti, 7. She testified her story of having been intimate with Lobaido in his store at the time of the attack was false. AP-Wirephoto

Bodies of Drowned Boys Sought in Bay

Harbor and Quincy police today dragged the waters of Dorchester Bay for the bodies of two Dorchester boys drowned when their canoe capsized off Thompson's island where they were bound for a picnic. Meanwhile, at Quincy City Hospital, Jeremiah Hurley, 14, of Sanford st., Dorchester, who was rescued after clinging to the overturned craft for more than an hour, was recovering from shock and immersion.

Charles Ayers Walter Murray

The victims were George Donahue, 15, of Sanford st., and David McHugh, 14, of Temple st. The Hurley boy said today he had only a vague recollection of the accident.

But How Does Pa Know Answers?

NEW YORK, April 19 (INS)—If you answer all Junior's questions patiently and intelligently, you can transform him into something resembling a genius.

Proof is Honorary Lt. Bo Feaster, 2 years and 5 months old, who came to New York after a visit with Secretary of State Byrnes, who offered to let him run the State Department.

Bo, accompanied by his father, John Feaster, a cattleman from Spartanburg, S. C., granted reporters an interview in which he rattled off such names as Mikhailovitch, Timoshenko, Chiang Kai-shek and Yamashita as though they were dog, cat or mama.

He outlined the martial difficulties which beset China, Yugoslavia and Greece, named all the presidents of the United States, and topped off by saying good-by in German, Greek and Italian.

Said Bo's proud dad:

"He's really not a genius at all. The secret is patience. Any normal child could do the same if his parents took the time to answer all his questions intelligently."

MYSTERY DEATH IN N. H.

EXETER, N. H., April 19 (AP)—The body of an unidentified man about 62 years of age, who police said was believed to have been dead about two weeks, was found in woods off Linden st.

Tragic Fire Has Strange Sequel

METHUEN, April 19 (AP)—Fire Chief Benjamin M. Bean, 50, was overcome by smoke at a fire he discovered today while attending burial services for the deputy chief who died of smoke inhalation while fighting a blaze in the same locality Tuesday.

Deputy Fire Chief William J. Hynes, 68, was buried in Immaculate Conception Cemetery. The chief and most of the firemen were present.

At the close of the service, smoke was seen in the distance. Driving hurriedly to the scene, firemen found the Colonial mansion of the late Dan A. Donahue ablaze.

Cause of the fire was undetermined. Chief Bean was removed unconscious to the Lawrence General Hospital.

AFTER MATE'S SLAYING—Her face contorted with emotion, Mrs. Clarice Richmond of Chicago, leaves the scene after viewing her husband's bullet-ridden body. She heard the shots in front of her home, rushed out and found her husband sprawled on the sidewalk. Police described the victim as a number pool operator.

Girl, 10, Missing Off Train, Found In Providence

PROVIDENCE, April 19—Little Valerie Betz, 10, of Woodside, L. I., was found in North Providence today to end a hunt that began when she stepped from a New York-to-Boston train and vanished yesterday.

With more than 300 police searching the area, Valerie was discovered in St. Mary's Home, an Episcopal institution, where she had lived for a while several years ago.

The youngster was being brought by her stepfather and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Poulos, for a visit to the Lynn home of an uncle, Weletis Romuliotis.

Before the train reached Providence, the child had expressed a wish to visit an uncle, James Hoopis of Princeton ave., where she lived as a baby. But her mother said the Lynn trip was coming first.

Just outside the Providence station Valerie went to get a drink of water. When the train pulled out she was missing.

From Boston Mrs. Poulos, recent bride of a war veteran, contacted police and then went on to Lynn in the belief Valerie would seek out her relatives here.

But Valerie never reached the Hoopis home and a city-wide search thus far has failed to uncover her whereabouts.

She has blue eyes and light brown hair, and was wearing a gray coat with black velvet collar, brown shoes and white stockings.

Four Teen-Age Boys Held in Auto Theft

Four teen-age Dorchester boys were arrested today in Portsmouth, R. I., as they were riding through that town in an auto stolen in Dorchester yesterday, according to word received by Boston police.

The auto, taken from its parking place in Bicknell st., Dorchester, belongs to Louis Goldberg of Verndale st., Brookline.

Sis, Meet Brother

WICHITA, Kan., April 19 (AP)—Joe Bell was repairing his backyard fence to keep chickens out of his garden when his next door neighbor, Mrs. Julia Etta McCafe, asked him not to step on her raspberry bushes.

They chatted several moments and discovered they were brother and sister, separated 40 years.

Mrs. McAfee, 64, and Bell, 59, had seen each other only twice since their separation in 1889 on the death of their mother. They had never met in the several months they were neighbors.

War Curbs Mar British Easter

LONDON, April 19 (AP)—The British people started their four-day Easter vacation today in high spirits, but with some remnants of wartime restrictions as holiday impediments.

Thousands queued up the railway stations for trains out of London. The food ministry urged travelers to carry their own food.

Seaside visitors were warned not to handle explosives or strange missiles they might find on the beaches.

More than 500,000 persons were expected at Brighton, and shopkeepers there were urged to give resident housewives priority on both rationed and unrationed goods.

Over 450 persons departed aboard the channel steamer Princess Josephine Charlotte for the first Easter vacation trip to Belgium in six years.

Hotel Bradford Liquor Stolen

Theft of an undetermined amount of liquor from the Circus Room of the Hotel Bradford was revealed today when hotel employes discovered the liquor closet, containing thousands of dollars' worth of beverages, had been jimmied open.

In a nearby corridor was found a bucket in which eight bottles of bonded whisky were packed, indicating the thief was interrupted in the act of looting.

An inventory was started to ascertain the amount of loss, while police sought a man known to have been in the Circus Room early in the morning.

Harry N. Guterman Funeral on Sunday

Funeral services for Harry N. Guterman of Country Club rd., Newton Center, prominent Boston attorney, will be held at 2 p. m. Sunday at Temple Sinai, Charles st. and Sewell ave., Brookline.

Visiting hours at the Levine chapel, Harvard st., Brookline, will be from 8 to 10 tomorrow night.

Granny Tells 'Em

PORTLAND, Ore., April 19 (AP)—Mrs. Louisa Dingman, who at 81 is still able to thread a needle without glasses, listened to her grandson, 2½, complain about pain from a wisdom tooth.

"Why, I don't complain about mine at all," she chided, and opened her mouth to show him where her first wisdom tooth was just putting in an appearance.

Wanted by Doc! Home for Triplets

MANITOWAC, Wis., April 19 (AP)—Dr. and Mrs. R. J. Van Ells, parents of seven sons, advertised yesterday for a couple willing to take care of their 4½-month-old triplets while they sought to alleviate their housing srortage.

Dr. Van Ells said the family faced eviction May 10 and that he had been house hunting since the eviction notice was served April 10.

Several homes have been offered, the doctor said, but they were not large enough "and three boys from 8 to 16 need a place to move around in.

The three are Davis, 8; Thomas, 12, and Raymond, 16. The seventh son, Paul, 20, is with the Army in the South Pacific.

Rate Up $3 to $32 Swampscott's Tax

Swampscott's tax rate for 1946 is $32, highest in the town's history, the assessors announced today. The rate jumped $3 above last year's figure of $29.

A recent blanket pay raise to all town employes was given as the reason. The assessors said that but for transfer of a large sum from the town's excess and deficiency fund, the rate would have been $2 higher still.

State Dep't Held Front for Stalin

WASHINGTON, April 19—The State Dept. attitude toward the present government of Spain reflects the same Communist influence evident in the recent "win-the-peace-conference," Rep. Mason (R.) of Illinois charged today.

The "conference" was sponsored by Commerce Sec. Wallace, 20 members of Congress and leading Communists representing some 90 organizations investigated and branded by the FBI as Communist Front organizations, Mason asserted.

Pointing out that the object of the "win-the-peace" group was to appease Russia, similar to the State Dept. policy, Mason inquired:

"Can it be that good old Uncle Sam is now to become Communist window dresser behind which Stalin will work his will or have his way in Spain?"

St. John Lateran Tabernacle Looted

VATICAN CITY, April 19 (INS)—The sacred pyx of gold and gems containing the blessed sacrament was stolen from the tabernacle of the small chapel adjacent to the sacristy of St. John Lateran.

The theft was discovered by a church servant who went to the chapel for other religious articles and found the tabernacle door smashed.

Honeymooning Vet Takes Stolen Trousers Off Thief

DETROIT, April 19 (INS)—Carl Irwin, 25, of Canton, O., climaxed his second honeymoon by taking his trousers from James Haley, 30, who spent the night in jail pantless.

Detroit police related this bizarre story of the clothing shortage today:

Irwin and his wife, Betty, 24, were married just before Irwin went to war. They started a second honeymoon when he returned, but someone in Detroit stole their suitcases containing his trousers and about $250 worth of her honeymoon clothing.

The Irwins went on to Niagara Falls, and Bert Dudley found one of Mrs. Irwin's dresses in a pawnshop. He arrested Haley, also a veteran, who had hocked the article.

The Irwins came back to Detroit to confront Haley. Mrs. Irwin exclaimed "Honey, he's got your pants on." So Irwin removed his blue plaid tweeds from Haley's legs.

Haley spent the night in jail pantless, but didn't suffer—he had on long underwear.

Haley borrowed a pair of corduroys from Dudley for his appearance in court. If he gets out of this jam he says he will rejoin the Army—and wear pants furnished by Uncle Sam.

Winchester Tax Rate Rises $3; Now $30

Higher government costs, including a $90,000 increase in the school department budget, are responsible for the higher tax rate in Winchester, officials reported today. Chairman John F. Cassidy of the Board of Assessors announced the rate will be $30, an increase of $3 over last year.

Order Cutting Flour In U. S. Due Tonight

By ROBERT T. BROWN

WASHINGTON, April 19 (INS)—Issuance of the government's long-awaited order slashing domestic flour consumption 25 per cent to help feed Europe and Asia was expected today as a prelude to President Truman's radio report on the world food problem.

The President will share a worldwide broadcast at 7 o'clock tonight with former President Hoover, whom he will introduce. Hoover, who has been called home by Mr. Truman for a personal report on his foreign food probe, will speak from Cairo, Egypt.

Mr. Truman will tell the world that the global famine is worse than it has been painted, and is expected to appeal for help in feeding those threatened by starvation.

In the meantime, informed sources predicted that Agriculture Sec'y Anderson will issue the flour consumption order, and that it will be followed by a U. S.-Canadian agreement on specific grain quotas to be shipped abroad.

Britain is expected to consider the American directive as a guarantee that she can immediately divert 200,000 tons of cereal grains into famine-stricken countries.

At the same time, the Agriculture dept. prepared to ask farmers to produce 5 per cent less hogs this fall than in last year's June-December period, when 35,155,000 were produced.

This cut, aimed at saving corn stores, would mean reduced pork supplies in the early summer and spring of 1947.

The department also is seeking a 12 per cent cut in chicken production as a grain conservation measure, a step which will mean less poultry next year.

Bible Sellout

PITTSBURGH, April 19 (INS) — The Holy Bible—world's best seller—was a complete sellout this Good Friday in Pittsburgh.

Not a single copy of the recently published new testament revised version was to be had.

Although 350,000 copies have been published since production began a few weeks ago, publishers report it impossible to meet the demand.

Witness in Mystery Death Case Slashed

A 23-year-old Maynard man was admitted to a Concord hospital today suffering from razor slashes, less than 24 hours after he had been questioned by Boston police in connection with the mysterious death of Andrew J. Karki, 23, also of Maynard, whose battered body was found Wednesday morning in the doorway of a downtown store.

Sgt. William E. Mutz of the Milk st. station, investigating the death, left immediately for Concord when informed by Maynard police of the man's condition. Police indicated they had been satisfied with the man's story after talking with him yesterday.

Contining their investigation police had learned that a man was seen kneeling beside Karki's body at 2:05 a. m. Wednesday, several hours before the veteran was discovered lying in a pool of blood.

They also learned another man, a truck driver known to the victim, was seen the morning the body was found. This man, police said, has disappeared.

The probe further disclosed that on Tuesday Karki, an Army Air Forces veteran, and a companion went fishing. The companion told police they did some drinking and that he left the victim in the early evening. Karki, he said, came into Boston. He had $22 with him, police learned.

Karki's body was found in a Summer st. doorway. An autopsy disclosed he had suffered a fractured skull and had been struck about the head and face with "blunt impact."

The autopsy report also said Karki might have sustained the injuries in a fight or as a result of having been struck by an auto.

Congress Faces 5 Must Bills

WASHINGTON, April 19 (AP)—Administration leaders reportedly trimmed their legislative sails today to five must subjects in an effort to get an irritated and often rebellious Congress out of Washington by early July.

The unofficial decision appeared likely to direct major efforts toward salvaging OPA and the draft, passing regular appropriations bills and getting approval for the $3,750,000,000 British loan and a long-range housing program.

If this program is followed, legislation to merge teh armed services, increase the minimum wage rate, broaden Social Security, curtail labor disputes, set up a permanent Fair Employment Practice Commission and abolish state poll taxes would go by the boards until the next session in January.

Members of the House were homeward-bound on their Easter vacation today, eager to get their constituents' reaction to their votes on the draft and the OPA. Senators start homeward tonight and tomorrow.

Sick Vet Pauper Law Lashed in Congress

By DAN MARKEL

WASHINGTON, April 19—Disabled World War II veterans from 25 states applauded Sens. Alexander Wiley (R.) of Wisconsin and William F. Knowland (R.) of California as they carried to the Senate the fight to restore full compensation to the thousands of single men suffering in veterans hospitals.

Representing the Disabled American Veterans, the delegation at the Capitol steps cheered the senators' pledges to crusade for removal of the drastic penalties imposed on hospitalized veterans under the infamous New Deal "economy" Act of 1933.

Under that act, sick, maimed, blind or paralyzed unmarried patients in veterans' hospitals receive only $20 per month if their wounds or injuries were service-connected; only $8 if service-connection has not been proven.

The two senators joined in introducing in the upper branch of Congress a companion measure to that of Rep. Edith Nourse Rogers (R.) of Massachusetts, now pending before the World War Veterans' Committee in the House of Representatives.

"Notwithstanding any provision of law or veterans' regulation, no reduction of the pension, compensation, or emergency officers' retirement pay of any veteran shall be made during his hospital treatment or institutional or domiciliary care by the United States or any political subdivision," reads the heart of the bill.

Addressing the Senate immediately after introducing the bill, Senator Wiley said:

"This bill is an act of elementary justice for the tens of thousands of disabled ex-servicemen without dependents who are hospitalized in Veterans Administration facilities.

"They are receiving a mere pittance of $20 a month, 66 cents a day, or $8 per month, 26 cents a day.

"Prisoners of war in America get 80 cents a day."

"Under our bill," Senator Wiley continued, "disabled boys' pensions would be maintained at full rates while they are hospitalized. The reasons for this bill are obvious."

Hub Easter Marriage Record Seen Near

More active than ever this spring, Cupid may set an Easter marriage record in Boston, City Registrar Michael J. Manning reported today. So far this month, 705 couples have filed wedding intentions as compared to 381 in the corresponding period a year ago.

Manning added that 3217 wedding licenses have been issued in the city to date this year, 881 more than in the same period in 1945.

Hartmann, professor of educational psychology at Columbia University and former instructor at Harvard. Hartmann was once chairman of the now defunct "Peace Now" movement.

$20,000 to Be Top UN Salary

NEW YORK, April 19 (AP)—The United Nations eventually will become one of the world's largest international employers, with a payroll of 3000 on scales ranging from $1140 to $20,000 annually, UN sources said today.

Workers will come under an international civil service, which is being set up, and will have all the rights and privileges of the system as known in the United States.

Already reviewed and approved by labor experts of several nations, the classification plan starts with the $1140 scale for messengers, charwomen and other unskilled employes and runs up to $11,000 for top directors.

1900 Nazi PWs Poisoned in U. S. Zone by Bread

FRANKFURT, April 19 (AP) — A mysterious arsenic poisoning has struck down 1900 German prisoners of war in an American internment camp near Nuernberg in 24 hours, U. S. Army headquarters announced tonight.

All victims are "seriously ill," headquarters said. No deaths were reported.

The prisoners were seized with arsenic poisoning in Stalag 13 near Nuernberg, the announcement said. Early reports showed bread containing arsenic had been found.

Headquarters said the bread for the prisoners, "in accordance with normal procedures," had been obtained from a local German bakery.

The counter-intelligence corps, together with agents of the U. S. Army theater provost marshal, investigated.

Find Girl Hermit in Woods

SEATTLE, April 19 (AP)—A self-styled "wild girl of the woods," who had lived in a wooded area south of the city limits nearly a month, with her only shelter a bedroll, is held for questioning.

Sheriff Harlan S. Callahan said she faces an open charge and was booked as Joan Ellen Baker, 20, missing from her West Seattle home since March 22. Her father, C. C. Baker, reported her disappearance 10 days ago.

County Detectives Adam W. Lyskosi and William Freeman said they arrested her yesterday when they found her sitting on a log holding a small caliber pistol near a cache of stolen goods. In the cache were more than $1000 worth of pistols, rifles and shotguns, radios, jewelry, cameras, clothing and an expensive accordion.

"I could have shot you, you know," they quoted her as saying. "But I thought maybe you had children at home, and I did not want to hurt them."

The girl, who has lived on chickens and eggs, denied stealing the articles.

Jap Death Ray Near Perfect On V-J Day, Expert Reports

NEW YORK, April 19 (AP)—Japanese efforts to develop an effective death ray as a grim application of the principles of radar should be, says Roger I. Wilkinson, a permanent warning to the American people.

"The public, including most American scientists," says Wilkinson, who directed a survey of Japanese radar development for the Far Eastern air forces, "have the mistaken impression that the Japanese did nothing original in the war, and only made poor copies of such Allied equipment and techniques as they could capture, and whatever the Germans chose to give them.

"This is a dangerous attitude."

Wilkinson, back now as a technician in the Bell Telephone laboratories, spent 26 war months in the Pacific and was assigned to a closeup study of Japanese radar research immediately after V-J Day as a civilian consultant with the Air Technical Intelligence Group.

Wilkinson said that when the war ended, the Japanese were ready to try a death ray machine capable of focussing a lethal beam over a one-mile range.

In experimental tests, the ray had been able to kill a rabbit within about 30 minutes at a distance of 100 feet. The ultra-high frequency radio signals caused blood cells in the victim's lungs to break down so that hemorrhages resulted.

The objective, Wilkinson explained, apparently was to use the device against advancing ground troops by training the beam on personnel for three or four hours.

The Japanese apparently hoped to make the invisible beam broad enough for simultaneous blanketing of large groups of men. Pointing out that the device was still in a laboratory stage and expressing no opinion as to whether it might ultimately have been successful, Wilkinson cited the work merely as demonstrating the non-imitative enterprise and ability of Japanese scientists.

During much of the war, concentrated development of radar was neglected under the Japanese psychology of offensive because the devices were considered primarily defensive.

"The errors on the part of the military in Japan are now well appreciated by all Japanese ex-military, academic and industrial leaders," he added. "They would not make the same mistakes again.

"Thus it would be folly to discount the potential ability of Japanese scientists, with proper leadership and organization, to make a very creditable showing in inventing and building all kinds of electronic devices in competition with ourselves or any other nation."

Susan Peters, Hubby Adopt Son

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., April 19 (AP)—Actress Susan Peters, paralyzed by a hunting accident a year ago, and her actor-husband, Richard Quine, have adopted a 10-day-old son, but confidently hope some day to be able to raise a family of their own.

"I'm probably the proudest, happiest mother in the world," said Miss Peters, who has been waging a valiant struggle to regain her health and resume her screen career.

"We want to give him lots of brothers and sisters—children of our own, as soon as I am well. We want a big family."

Reds to Get Poland's Coal for Next Year

WARSAW, April 17 (delayed) (AP)—Foreign trade experts say Soviet Russia probably will get virtually all of Poland's coal exports for the next year.

Under a new commercial pact signed recently in Moscow, Russia and Poland agreed to exchanges equivalent to $196,000,000 from April 1, 1946, to April 7, 1947, and coal is the principal product which Poland at present is able to export.

SORORITY INITIATION FATAL

AUSTIN, Tex., April 19 (AP)—Miss Georgia Stevens, Houston student at the University of Texas, died early today of burns received Wednesday night during an initiation at the Delta Delta Delta sorority house.

Feed Your Dog as Many Famous Breeders Do

"...best food we ever used"

Paul Evans, owner of Lane's End Cocker Spaniels, Minneapolis, Minn., writes: "I have been using Gro-Pup for some time. It's the best food we have ever used. My dogs eat better, maintain better condition and coat. In short, Gro-Pup has been wholly satisfactory."

Most breeders and veterinarians use and recommend a foundation diet of good dry dog food fed with scrap meat, including fat. So many feed Kellogg's GRO-PUP because it provides all the vitamins and minerals dogs are known to need for growth and vigor.

Kellogg's GRO-PUP is thrifty. And dogs love its hearty, meaty flavor.

Mother Cabrini's Canonization Due Soon

Among the four new saints of the Catholic Church to be proclaimed soon by Pope Pius XII will be Mother Frances Xavier Cabrini, first American to be raised to this exalted honor.

From his throne in the sanctuary of the Basilica of St. Peter's in Rome, the Pope will solemnly canonize the woman founder of the Misionaries of the Sacred Heart of Jesus. She died in Chicago in 1917.

The colorful details of this magnificent canonization ceremony will be described in a special article, "The Thorny Road To Sainthood," by Rev. Francis P. LeBuffe, S. J., next Sunday in the American Weekly Magazine of the Boston Sunday Advertiser.

Contrary to some misconceptions that elevation to the saint-hood is a simple matter, Fr. LeBuffe shows how the process of canonization is a long, painstaking one, involving repeated trials and examinations and the minutest scrutiny of the candidate's life and holy works on the part of Church authorities, physicians and scientists.

Fr. LeBuffe traces the process of canonization through three major steps—the successive declarations of "Venerable," "Blessed" and finally "Saint."

7 Student Orators In Tilt Wednesday

By BERT FORD

From six eastern zone cities, seven young student contestants, who have already shown a high quality of oratory in their local elimination tests, will meet here next Wednesday, April 24, to engage in a verbal battle in the 1946 Hearst Newspapers National Oratorical Contest: "Andrew Jackson, Seventh President of the United States," at Boston Latin School.

Names of the three distinguished citizens who have agreed to serve as judges in the eastern zone finals will be announced in the Boston Sunday Advertiser next Sunday.

The eastern zone comprises Boston, New York City, Albany and Baltimore. Representing Boston will be Ronald Weyand, 17, of Waban rd., Quincy, a senior at Boston College High School, and William A. Burke, 26, a World War II veteran of Mohan st., Everett, a student at Staley College of the Spoken Word.

New York will be represented by Anthony J. Bivona, 17, a senior at La Salle Academy, champion in the high school division, and John J. Saal, 21, of Brooklyn, a law student at St. John's University.

Baltimore honors will be defended by William J. Heil, 17, of Baltimore, a senior at Loyola High School, and Louis Milio, 19, a law student at the University of Baltimore. Albany will be represented by Ann Horan, 18, senior at Cathedral Academy.

Winners in the eastern zone finals will be eligible for national finals on May 2, also to be held in Boston Latin School auditorium.

During intermissions between orations, artists famed throughout the nation on screen, radio and in night club circles will present a star-studded program of entertainment.

Ranny Weeks, popular band leader and maestro at the Hotel Somerset, who was recently discharged from the Navy with the rank of lieutenant commander, will be master of ceremonies, and music will be furnished by Ruby Newman's band, with musical arrangements by Sammy Eisen.

Stars of the show will include Georgie Price, top song stylist and comedian now at the Hotel Bradford roof; Frances Faye, blues singer and brilliant pianist, who will be appearing next week at the Club Mayfair; Pat Rooney, Jr., of the world-famed dancing family of Rooneys, and now a star at the Gay Nineties, and Marion Mulhall, Jimmie O'Keefe's lovely and talented singer at the Music Box.

Other star entertainers for this occasion will be announced later. The program will also include the Girls' High School Glee Club of 80 voices, under direction of Joseph H. Gildea, assistant director of music in the Boston public schools.

Visiting students will be entertained following their arrival here at a banquet at the Copley-Plaza Hotel, and there will be a visit to the State House and City Hall on the following day, as well as a trip to historic sites of interest in Boston, and to the battlegrounds of Concord and Lexington.

Clare to Dazzle In New Easter Hat

By MARTHA KEARNEY

WASHINGTON, April 19 (INS)—Clare Boothe Luce will be the only congressional glamor girl to surprise the Easter bunny with a new bonnet Sunday morning.

The luscious Luce will brighten Fifth ave. with a baby-blue confection topped with pale blue roses. A dark blue veil will add mystery.

The other girls? They haven't got a thing to wear.

Piquant Emily Taft Douglas (D.) of Illinois, has had no time to buy "anything special" for Easter. She plans to spend the day in the capital.

Rep. Helen Gahagan Douglas (D.) of California, has been working night and day during the congressional speed-up. She has had no time even to window shop.

Rep. Helen Douglas Mankin (D.) of Georgia, plans to pack up and dash back to her home in Atlanta for a family celebration.

Triple Play Fails, She's Out $2000

NEW YORK, April 19 (AP)—Alma Joss, 27, chased a purse snatcher three blocks today, screaming for help as she ran. The handbag contained a $2000 payroll.

The race ended when two polite gentlemen stopped her and returned the purse which, they said, they had wrested from the thief.

They accepted Miss Jones' thanks, tipped their hats and disappeared.

Then she peeped inside and the $2000 wasn't there.

Police are looking for the original snatcher—and his gallant interceptors.

Mine Town Prepares For Blast Dead Rite

McCOY, Va., April 19 (AP)—McCoy today prepared funeral rites for 12 of its residents while state and federal mine inspectors began an investigation of the deep level explosion in a mine of the Great Valley Anthracite Coal Corp.

Virtually every family in this tiny community was affected by the disaster. The 12 who died 6000 feet from the surface were all married and left 50 or more children among their survivors. They will be buried this evening. Forty-six other miners escaped.

Streptomycin Expected To Control Black Plague

WASHINGTON, April 19 (AP)—Successful use of the new drug streptomycin in animal experiments for the treatment of Bubonic Plague—the disease which is believed to have been the "black death" of the Middle Ages—is reported.

Dr. J. W. Hornibrook of the U. S. Public Health Service's plague laboratory at San Francisco said 10 mice infected with the organisms that caused the plague in humans survived the disease for a test period of 14 days under treatment with streptomycin.

During the same period, seven of 10 other infected mice, which had not been given streptomycin, died.

At the end of the 14 days all survivors in both groups were killed for autopsy purposes. None of the streptomycin-treated mice showed evidence of plague infection. But all the mice in the "control" group showed post-mortem evidence of the disease, including the three which had survived for 14 days.

Streptomycin is a drug derived from an organism that occurs in the soil. The National Research Council says that in tests conducted so far, streptomycin has demonstrated promise in the treatment of certain infections of the urinary tract, and also in the treatment of tularemia ("rabbit fever") and a malady called "influenza bacillus meningitis" which has no relation to epidemic influenza.

British Wife's GI Held in Bigamy

DANBURY, Ct., April 19 (AP)—State Policeman William J. McNamara said today he had arrested on a bigamy charge Harrison J. Cypher, 33, of Danbury, who welcomed his British war bride and their infant son here three weeks ago.

McNamara said the former Army sergeant is charged with being the husband of Mrs. Florence Cypher of South Salem, N. Y., and the father of her two children. Cypher's British bride is Dorothy Joan Robbins, 24, whom he married on Sept. 29, 1943, in England.

GOD'S DAY

THIS IS Good Friday, the year's most sorrowful day; and Catholics and Protestants, following the rule and custom of the ages, will go to their churches or spend a reverent hour in their homes reading the Biblical story of the Passion.

"THE CRUCIFIXION" by Perugino

FOR ALL MANKIND HE DIED

The origin of the term Good is not clear. Some authorities say it comes from the German Gottes Freitag, which means God's Friday.

Others maintain that it is a derivative of Gute Freitag, a designation accepted and literally translated by the English.

For most of the world in this dark and desperate year of 1946, with hunger and disease stalking war-devastated countries and continents, the day is both good and God's.

Once more, in spirit, millions walk with Jesus to Calvary's heights.

Once more, sorrowing eyes behold His nailed hands, pierced heart and thorn-crowned head.

Once more, grieving hearts hear the cry that Time will never still:

"Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do."

Somehow, one's own suffering seems strangely light and transient.

Somehow, one knows that He who died in the agony of the cross will know and fully understand.

Would that we, weak and fallible human beings, possessed the strength of mind and greatness of soul to turn from our enemies, look to the Father in Heaven and say, "Forgive! Forgive!"

If only a small part of the world's people were that kind of men and women, our troubles—personal, national and international—would end in a day.

Certainly, a civilization so founded on truth and genuine honesty would never tolerate such evils as persecutions, bigotry and war.

In it there could be only PEACE and GODLY HAPPINESS.

That is the lesson of Good Friday—a lesson this troubled earth needs now more than ever before.

Until we learn it, and PRACTICE IT, individually and collectively, we can neither expect spiritual grace nor deserve lasting peace.

I wish I could remember that first day,
First hour, first moment of your meeting me.
So blind was I to see and to foresee
So dull to mark the budding of my tree.
A day of days! I let it come and go
As traceless as a thaw of bygone snow;
It seemed to mean so little, meant so much,
If only now I could recall that touch,
First touch of hand in hand—Did one but know!

—CHRISTINA G. ROSSETTI.

A NEW YORKER says his young and beautiful red-haired wife snores. Her age is 22. That is unusual. Very few people under 30 snore. It is an affliction which usually comes with the years . . . Have you noticed that while brown-eyed girls are usually flirtatious they almost invariably have a sense of humor? . . . Now have a reader in Temperance, Mich., who asks if I know where it is. It is a little over the Michigan-Ohio border from Toledo. But I don't know how it got its name.

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS: Q—I saw it stated that foreign newspaper correspondents in Hollywood write for a combined circulation of 500,000,000 readers. How many people are there in the world? A—In 1940 the population of the earth was a little over two billion . . . Q—Do you typewrite by the touch or pick and peck system? A—I first learned to operate a typewriter by the touch system, but shortly after broke several fingers playing baseball and switched to the pick and peck method which I am still using.

PASSING BY: Mlle. Spivy, Night club comedienne. The last time I saw Paris, I saw her at Auteuil, the race track where they have nothing but steeplechase races. How would you like to bet on six steeplechase races in one afternoon? Certainly no way for a fellow with a weak heart to pass his time . . . Ingrid Bergman. Scintillating Swedish screen siren. Looks taller on the street than on the screen. Guess that is because she hasn't some lengthy leading man like Gary Cooper or Gregory Peck towering over her. Ingrid is 5 feet 8½ inches tall. If she were a couple of inches taller she could join the Tip Toppers' Club.

Ingrid Bergman

OVER THERE: In Hungary before the war if you had one pengo (a unit of money) you could get 20 cents in United States money for it. Now you need over five million pengoes to get 20 cents. If a similar state of inflation existed in this country one of our $10,000 bills would be worth less than a nickel.

ALMOST CONFIDENTIAL: The favorite food of J. Edgar Hoover is southern style fried chicken and spoon bread. Mr. Hoover, a bachelor, is reported to have one of the best cooks in Washington . . . Too many young women marry too soon and get tied up with the wrong man, because they cannot stand the condescending attitude of their feminine friends of the same age who are already married. Envy certainly drives some women to desperate deeds.

J. Edgar Hoover

CATS: "Give us a rest as to horses, women and dogs. Write something about cats," requests a Seattle subscriber. About all I have on hand as to felines is that James Mason, Britain's No. 1 film star, prefers cats to dogs. Mr. Mason, who is to appear in some films produced in the U. S. A., is scheduled to arrive in Hollywood in September. In discussing by mail the renting of a house in Beverly Hills, the British actor stated: "Please be advised that I will bring to America four of my pet cats."

SCIENTIFIC NOTE: Some men of science claim by the use of sound waves they can age whisky in hours instead of years. In 16 hours of sound wave treatment they can produce whisky equal in quality and flavor to 16-year-old liquor. Very interesting. But offhand, it would seem the liquor industry will view this claim with more apprehension than delight. Incidentally, how close can an expert come to determining the age of whisky by tasting it?

LAWYERS: Aiding in the prosecution of the Jap war criminals in Tokyo will be five women lawyers, all from the United States. Four of these feminine legal lights are unmarried. I know several women lawyers, all good looking, who are also single Does being a lawyer incline a female to prefer living alone? Also, I wonder if a married lawyer argues with her husband in a logical manner or pursues the illogical form of reasoning practiced by so many wives in the heat of domestic arguments.

"Frankly, we don't know—some sewer construction men from the city put it through last week!"

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Copyright, 1946, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

ONE NEGRO EDITOR in the United States who perceives the patronizing and degrading fraud upon her people that has been promoted for low political purpose by carpet-baggers and frequently reminds them that they are at least in part responsible for their own woes is Miss Almena Davis, the editor of the Los Angeles Tribune.

Westbrook Pegler

This paper is heartily hated by many other Negro publications which, for years, have imposed on the very ignorance which they deplore among Negroes to advertise luck charms and love powders and to serve their readers a bad imitation of the lowest features of the white daily press written by ignorant gossips and sold by shrewd but utterly mercenary publishers.

At its mast-head, the Tribune says: "The best protection newspapers can offer against distortion, exaggeration and gossip, is frank, uncolored publication of the facts. Truth is always dignified; gossip never is."

TWO YEARS AGO, the Tribune ran an editorial on an observance called National Negro Press Week.

"What we have to say about the Negro press won't be what the majority of the craft will like to hear," it said.

"For the most part, the Negro press, to a journalist of any training, talent and respect for the profession, is nauseating. Negro newspapers are powerless because the men and women behind them and on them lack the power of skill, of qualifications for their jobs, of knowledge, without which, zeal, of which they have plenty, is just a damned nuisance.

"When it comes to sensationalism, to vulgarity, to shallowness, to cheapness, the Negro newspapers go the white press one better."

THE TRIBUNE here might have added, with truth, that the majority of the Negro papers during this war so undermined the national loyalty of Negro servicemen that they became suspiciously responsible for episodes humiliating to their own racial clientele and tragic to many individual Negroes.

THESE EVENTS have been charitably glossed over, but they are, nevertheless, of record and the records contain, moreover, timely reports by commanders and intelligence officers during the training period deploring the evil influence of part of the Negro press on Negro units.

Recently, Miss Davis was invited to Washington to receive an honor called the Wendell Willkie Award for excellent journalism.

After a decent interval, the Tribune carried a story headed: "Davis Unpopular Choice for Willkie Award; Press on Her."

The story said the Negro press accused the award committee of ignoring worthier candidates in favor of frivolous matter, written by Almena Davis.

"In what appeared to be deliberate and malicious misrepresentation of the facts," it said, "Negro newspapers far and wide proclaimed that Miss Davis had won the award for describing Negro men as 'lousy lovers.' The article took Negro men to task for inordinate pride in their sexual prowess."

IN REPLY, Miss Davis explained that this abuse was "just another example of the poor journalism rampant in the Negro press."

DARING TO CHALLENGE New Deal thought control in another problem, the Tribune attacked unions which tried to make small restaurant owners in the Negro section of Los Angeles pay Hollywood wages and hire employes to do the cooking and bottle-washing usually done by the owners.

Daring again, it repudiated Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt's political protege, Mrs. Helen Gahagan Douglas, also favored by the Hollywood radicals, in her campaign for re-election to Congress. There was acid in references to Mrs. Douglas' new distinction as one of the 10 American women whose apparel is most luxurious.

Still again, Miss Davis ridiculed a local troupe of Negro stage actors, demanding that they be judged by artistic and professional standards with no allowance for their color.

An editorial comment seems to explain the editorial mind of this lone but formidable fighter.

"We find ourselves perpetually on opposite sides (from other Negro papers)," Miss Davis wrote, "because we cannot take a program or line, whether of race, party or philosophy, and exalt it beyond the exigencies of the moment which, to us, form the only intelligent basis for conviction."

Hollywood Today

Substituting for Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, April 19—Annabella, Ty Power's blonde wife, who hasn't made a movie in three years, comes back in "13 Rue de Madeleine," 20th's O.S.S. story.

When Annabella was Louella's dinner guest a few weeks ago she said she was getting tired spending her days just getting a good suntan in the various spots she and Ty vacationed. There's no reason why she shouldn't be back on the screen—she looks wonderful—and still has the cutest short hair cut in town. (It's done with mirrors and manicure scissors).

Annabella

From what I hear "13 Rue de Madeleine" is reverse French on "The House on 92nd Street"—a semi-documentary, semi-fictional thriller. In fact, Louis de Rochemont and Henry Hathaway, who produced and directed "House on 92nd Street," will be at the helm again.

THE DANNY KAYES are going to have a baby in December—and today they had to tie Danny down with pink and blue baby ribbon to keep him from jumping through the roof with happiness. For six years he and Sylvia have wanted a little Kaye around the house. Sylvia was so pleased and happy when she thought it might be true that she planed out for New York to get her own doctor to verify the news.

ON THE WHOLE I find I can restrain myself about kid movies and walk right by a theater where the latest child rave is parading his or her cherubic talents. But eight-year-old Dean Stockwell has got me. What a cutie he is in "The Green Years," a really fine boy actor who seems to be heading for the Jackie Cooper-Jackie Coogan class, or what else would you call being teamed with Wallace Beery in "The Mighty McGurk?" Wally is at his best, too, in these human interest yarns about a tough hombre with a heart of gold and a little nugget to share the close-ups.

ONE WAY to get the exact story you want is to go out and write it yourself—which is what Fritz Lang has done in "Superstition Mountains" and being producer-director and president of Diana Productions, he's sold it to himself for a movie. He's been playing around with the idea of Arizona's lost Dutchman mine ever since 1939, when he spent several weeks in Arizona and heard about it for the first time. It's a Western with a slightly spooky twang. So far there's no cast but it might be for Joan Bennett who, with her husband, Walter Wanger, is also a boss of the company.

FOR THE PAST few days this office has been out of commission from the telephone calls, the avalanche of telegrams, the notes and messages inquiring about Louella Parsons.

She is so deeply and sincerely touched that she wants you to know she has received every one of them—the beautiful flowers from old friends—the notes from new friends and even those messages from fans who say: "Miss Parsons wouldn't know me, but I've read her column for years and feel she is a friend."

I know you will be glad to know that there will not be an immediate operation and that she will rest for the next few weeks. I might add, this is a complete "bore." The crowning insult was when the hospital arbitrarily cut off her telephone!

Meanwhile, she's all done up in pink and blue bed jackets, looking sassy, writing notes to Van Johnson, a fellow patient.

CHATTER IN HOLLYWOOD: Geraldine Fitzgerald blew out of town like a zephyr Tuesday night after telling friends it was imperative that she get train tickets to New York right away. She even waited three hours in the Union Station for her reservations to come through. One of the guesses is that her husband, Edward Lindsay-Hogg, is expected in New York from Dublin and that they will then settle the problem of divorcing or not divorcing. She's never really admitted a rift. Another, less interesting guess, is that she's hurrying East about a stage play she wants very much to do.

HOLLYWOOD IN SHORTS: John Hodiak is on suspension at M-G-M for turning down a gangster role; Margaret Roach, daughter of Hal, is in the hospital, threatened with pneumonia; gad—is this "cad" party stuff extending to the East? Elsa Maxwell is tossing an affair honoring six bachelors at the Starlight Roof, May 3, starting at the provocative bachelor hour of 11 p. m.; Cobina Wright, Sr., is completely heartbroken over the death of h little dog, Senorita. She wasn't just an ordinary dog, but put on an act entertaining the boys at the Canteen all during the war—and they loved her. Senorita also wore John Frederics hats and accompanied Cobina to all social events; if Greg Bautzer's carrying a torch for Lana Turner it didn't show on him dancing with another beautiful belle at the Mocambo Wednesday night; popular Dr. Verne Mason, who served for four years as colonel and chief medical consultant in the Army Medical Corps, received the very high honor of the Legion of Merit.

MARIA MONTEZ' sister, Adita, who hutted out of Hollywood after a family quarrel, is in Mexico to get a quota number so things must be lovely again; hey, kids—Red Skelton will be at the Clyde Beatty Circus Saturday performing with the clowns; Boots and Bill Cagney may dine together now and then—but there's not a chance of a reconciliation; that acreage Lou Costello bought in Van Nuys for his horses will be sub-divided for 13 six-room houses to help relieve the housing shortage; Tony Martin is now concentrating on Marguerite Chapman and aren't Joan Caulfield and Crooner Bob Graham a nice-some? Joe E. Lewis, the bridegroom, starts packing them into Ciro's Friday night. That's all today.

NEW YORK, April 19—Anne's wedding was one of those beautiful star-studded Technicolor productions that rated space in every newspaper from the shores of Coney Island to the beach at Malibu. And why not? Anne is a delightful and highly paid motion picture actress and George, her bridegroom, a film executive famous for his success, his way with women and his terrific yen for publicity.

Dorothy Kilgallen

Here is the story behind the wedding:

After Anne had left her third (or was it fourth?) mate, she began to be seen in Romanoff's and at the races with George. They fell in love with the usual Hollywood rapidity and the romance progressed along the accepted lines until Anne felt it was time for George to speak up and ask that vital question. But George was cagey with words when his freedom was involved. He was in no hurry to assume the perfumed yoke.

And he managed to stall Anne on the subject of matrimony for more than a year.

One day George was lunching with Gen X. Y. Z., a hero of the European invasion, and the General, a movie-goer, brought up the subject of Anne with whom he had seen George linked in the gossip columns and fan magazines.

"Say, are you really going to marry that beautiful creature?" he asked.

"Why, I suppose so," said George cautiously.

"Hope I'll be invited to the wedding," said the General with enthusiasm.

"Growing up is no bargain. You just exchange your teacher for a wife!"

George expanded. "Be invited!" he said. "Why, General, I'd be honored to have you act as best man."

NATURALLY, the General accepted with delight. "But I'll only be in Hollywood for 10 days," he said.

"That's all right," said George. "I'll arrange it."

He called Anne that night and bowled her over by announcing, "Honey, we're going to be married—but it'll have to be within the next 10 days."

"But that won't give me much time to get ready," she protested.

The swain's voice took on a steely tone. "Gen. X. Y. Z. says he's going to be my best man. He leaves in 10 days. Either we get married before then—or not at all!"

And so they were married, and everybody who was there says it just couldn't have been more romantic—at least considering that the bridegroom was an egomaniac and the bride not very bright.

Boston After Dark

MOST NEW ENGLAND COLLEGES are discarding the accelerated pace of wartime . . . four years of study were telescoped so that students were eligible for degrees in 30 months . . . Faced with a problem of trying to fit at least three former GIs into college space for two, the country's institutions may be asked by the Veterans' Administration to resume the wardays practice of cramming a normal pre-war four years of study into two and a half years.

MASSACHUSETTS institutions are said to be especially hard pressed by ambitious veterans . . . The Veterans' Administration brain trust is prepared to argue that GI students are eager to assimilate education as quickly as possible in an effort to make up for study time lost in service . . . Many of these "boys" became men under the rigors of Army, Navy or Marine training and the maturing experiences of combat.

THE SITUATION faced by universities and colleges during the war, when professors and instructors were lost to the various services and governmental bureaus, no longer exists. If need be, enough teachers are available to inaugurate two distinct college classifications, one for veterans and one for students into whose lives the war did not intrdue . . . On the demerit side of the argument as to whether college terms and periods of study should be lengthened, and vacations shortened, is that which can prove the danger of too much concentrated study to normal young Americans — a danger of nervous collapses and melancholy induced by too much mental work . . . Most college professors — and many of them know because they were "grinds" in their own college days — scoff at the notion that too much study brings about breakdowns or disinterest . . . They can quote the adage that "hard work never killed anyone" . . . (On the other hand, another axiom says that "hard work and no play makes Jack a dull boy.")

THE POSSIBILITY of a large state university in Massachusetts is discounted, experts say . . . Such a project would never get past the first political outposts . . . The famous institutions thriving in the old Bay State are entrenched too firmly to be made vulnerable by the installation of serious public opposition . . . But something must be done in this vicinity to make way for the veterans determined to get a college education at government expense, say those who are close to the subject . . . What?

ONE LARGE AND FAMOUS Boston hotel has banned all actors and affiliated showmen from its rooms . . . The end of the ill-starred Boston engagement of the flop musical, "Spring in Brazil," was the beginning of the "no actors" policy . . . Donald Brian, the original Prince of "The Merry Widow," and his wife, the former Virginia O'Brien, star of "The O'Brien Girl," (and not because of the coincidence in names), and their daughter, Denise, will visit with relatives in Hingham in June . . . Brian is writing the story of his life in a series of letters to his daughter . . . Ed Sullivan, the columnist, was in town for the afternoon and evening.

RUBY NEWMAN and his partners are investing more than $150,000 in Ten Acres, the Wayland dance and dine spot scheduled to open a week from tomorrow (April 27) . . . The former seating capacity has been doubled, and the dance floor has been lowered so that three terraces will overlook the dancers and the orchestra . . . Newman himself will conduct, and a band of 15 musicians will follow his baton . . . A former army singer, Michael Ravell, will be featured with the band . . . He was tapped for MGM before his induction as a result of a brief but satisfactory career as a radio singer, Maestro Newman says.

JOHNNY "SCAT" DAVIS is doing very well at the Rio Casino . . . His is a case of a face being more familiar than a name . . . Davis and his orchestra (or some orchestra) have been featured in 14 screen musical comedies made in Hollywood in the past six years . . . Tommy Dorsey's engagement at Totem Pole (the second in two weeks) comes to an end tomorrow night . . . Pat Rooney Junior's biggest hit at the Gay Nineties is the bit in which he imitates his famous father. Rooney, Sr., preceded young Pat at the Gay Nineties, and played four weeks as the new spot's opening star attraction.

WASHINGTON, April 19—One of the finest sermons I have ever heard was delivered the other night by Mr. Robert Cobb, the West Coast baseball and feeding tycoon who directs the earthly destinies of the Hollywood Brown Derbies and the Hollywood Ball Club.

The sermon might have been entitled "Whither-Are-We-Drifting?" or "What Doth It Profit a Man?" Although Mr. Cobb is somewhat unclerical in appearance he puts over his message with great fervor.

The sermon was given before a very high-class congregation consisting of Maj. Gen. Pete Quesada, of the Strategic Air Forces; Brig. Gen. J. J. (Red) O'Hare, the former Army football star; Brig. Gen. Joseph F. Battley, the unification kid; George Rosenberg, the movie writer, and a tall, thin fellow with a new pair of high water pants whose name I did not catch, probably because he was the host.

Someone asked Mr. Cobb if he would care for a drink and he said he would not because he is fathering a fine pair of ulcers. Somebody else observed that ulcers are no fun and for a few minutes we had a delightful chat about our various ailments, getting very clinical and revolting.

Mr. Cobb said he had recently been to the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn. At this everybody tried to drown him out because all had heard countless travelt alks of ulcerated expeditions to Rochester, Minn., and wanted no more of same.

BUT MR. COBB has an extremely resonant voice, probably acquired from shouting down movie stars who wished to tell him about their latest pictures. He went on talking about his trip to the Mayos, giving appropriate ulcerous grunts by way of emphasis.

"I went from one department to another at the Clinic," he said. "They poked me here and there and took more pictures of me than MGM ever took of Lana Turner. Incidentally, my ulcers are very photogenic.

"Finally, I came back to the head man, who looked over all the pictures and charts. He studied them for a time and then he asked me what I did for a living.

"I gave him a run-down as they say in the horse industry, and he said: 'My, my, you are a pretty important man.' I started to look modest, but decided a man should be frank with his doctor, and agreed that I was a man of responsibilities.

"The doctor said he supposed my manifold activities entailed considerable nervous strain and I said I supposed they did. I said it was no cinch running five restaurants and a ball club, adding that I had never been able to make up my mind which were the more temperamental and erasperating, waiters or ball players.

"The doctor looked me over again and said: 'Tell me, what did you do before you got into all these businesses?'

"'Why,' I said, 'I used to sell tickets for rides in glass-bottom boats at Catalina.'

"'And how did you feel then?' asked the doctor. 'Did you have ulcers?'

"'No,' I said. 'I always felt fine.'

"The doctor leaned back in his chair and put his fingertips together. At last, he said:

"'Tell me—is that glass-bottom boat job still open?'"

I WOULD LIKE to add a few details about the opening baseball game here between Washington and Boston, which may have escaped attention. The reason I say this is that other reporters had to watch the game while I could concentrate on watching President Truman. In this manner I overheard a priceless bit of Americana.

Our left-handed Chief Executive tossed out the first ball, which was caught, after a wild scramble, by Andy Gilbert, young utility infielder of the Washington club. Mr. Gilbert, who had been informed the ball-thrower was a person of considerable importance, rushed into the stand and asked the President to autograph his prize.

The President complied with a smile. Whereupon Mr. Gilbert accepted it very offhandedly and said:

"Thanks a lot, Mister!"

WHEN JEFF HEATH, Washington leftfielder, hit a home run the President applauded madly, although Boston is still in the United States.

SPEAKER SAM RAYBURN sat beside Mr. Truman. The President kept up a running fire of comment on the game. When he finally quit his box the floor was almost ankle deep in the leavings of peanuts.

THE PRESIDENT made sure there would be no distinctions of protocol among his three secretaries. The trio, Matt Connelly, Charlie Ross and Bill Hassett, sat together in a row. Mr. Arthur (Dutch) Bergman, the football wizard, embarrassed Mr. Connelly no end by shouting:

"How did you get in here, Matt? Did you come with someone?"

IT IS PERHAPS a good thing for government we don't have many opening days. Congress adjourned for the game—and so did every bureaucrat who could wangle tickets.

"THERE'S that gag we heard on the radio last night!"

Indict 31 in Huge Auto Black Mart

DETROIT, April 19 (INS)—A federal grand jury returned an indictment today against 31 persons of Michigan, Kentucky and Missouri on charges of operating a $3,000,000 black market in used cars. U. S. Atty. John C. Lehr said the indictments climaxed two years of investigation over the nation.

Special OPA agents claim the black market originated at Murray, Ky., in form of public auctions on cars bought in Detroit. The indictment charged 3000 used cars were involved.

Asst. U. S. Dist. Atty. Joseph C. Murphy said the defendants bought cars in Detroit for $50 to $200 above ceiling. He claimed they had them driven to southern and midwestern states for resale at $500 to $700 above ceiling.

RECTOR'S CHILD RETURNS

BRISTOL, R. I., April 19—Missing since Wednesday night, Natalie Parshley, 14, one of three adopted daughters of Canon Anthony R. Parshley, rector of St. Michael's Episcopal Cruch, returned today to her home in Church st. without explanation of her absence.

"We're going to give you a course in self-defense, Miss O'Day, and then assign you to the nylon counter!"

Ad Reveals Fees For Doctors Up

BOONE, Ia., April 19 (AP)—The Boone County Medical Society bought newspaper space in the News-Republican to advertise what it termed the first material change in doctors' fees in 30 years.

Announcing the adoption of uniform rates, the society said an increase had been necessitated by generally increased overhead costs, especially in office rents, office help, drugs and supplies.

For house calls within the city limits, the advertisement said, the charge will be $4 between 7 a. m. and 7 p. m., $5 between 7 and 10 p. m., and $7 between 10 p. m. and 7 a. m. For country calls, $1 will be added for each of the first two miles and 50 cents for each additional mile.

Priority for Vets Bill On Surplus Voted

WASHINGTON, April 19 (AP)—The House today approved a bill raising the priority status of veterans in acquiring surplus war goods.

The Senate has approved a similar measure. Because of minor differences the two versions will be considered by a joint Senate-House Conference Committee.

Dr. Dandy, Brain Surgeon, Dies

BALTIMORE, April 19 (AP)—Dr. Walter E. Dandy, 60, internationally-known brain surgeon, died this morning at Johns Hopkins Hospital where he had performed his greatest work.

Dr. Dandy chief neurological surgeon at Johns Hopkins and had treated patients from all over the world.

His brain surgery astounded the world of medicine and brought him international honors.

In 1940, Dr. Dandy reported 401 brain operations. There were 400 cures and one death.

By 1940, Dr. Dandy's fame was such that he was flown to Mexico in a chartered plane in a last desperate attempt to save Trotsky's life in Mexico where the latter lay dying from an assassin's hammer blows.

Doctors Told of New Arthritis Treatment

LOS ANGELES, April 19 (AP)—A new method for relieving pain in some arthritis cases was described by Dr. William H. Bickel, orthopedic surgeon of the Mayo Clinic, at a session of the American College of Surgeons regional meeting.

He told how steel cups may now be inserted between the thigh bone and pelvis to allow painless walking by a patient whose hips were afflicted with the ailment.

Missing Norwell Hunter Sought

Led by State Troopers, 50 volunteers today searched a densely wooded area of Norwell for 17-year-old Henry Makowski, victim of diabetes, missing since 2 p. m. yesterday when he went into the woods to hunt.

When the boy failed to return last night, his father, Frank Makowski of Main st., Norwell, a farmer, sought police help and expressed fear his son may have been stricken by a diabetic coma.

Local police, Boy Scouts and neighbors joined in a search of four square miles.

Young Makowski was described as tall and thin. He was wearing blue overalls, jumper and rubber boots. His father said he may have been carrying a rifle or

Liver Seen Vital To Fight Cancer

LOS ANGELES, April 19 (AP)—Medical efforts to solve the riddle of the liver's effect on cancer were described yesterday to members of the California-Arizona section of the American College of Surgeons.

Dr. Harry A. Davis of the College of Medical Evangelists here told the physicians:

"One of the important jobs of the liver is to destroy excess estrogenic substances, or sex hormones.

"When the liver becomes impaired, it fails to carry out this function of deactivation of the hormones, which for a still unknown reason produce cancer."

Liver health depends on an adequate quantity of thiamine, or vitamin B1, Dr. Davis continued, but emphasized that overdosage is not the answer.

Hi-De-Ho Sweet and Hot As Calloway Does It at RKO

By PEGGY DOYLE

The Hi-De-Ho Man is here again, and to say that he has cornered the band world's jive-and-jump talent for his present RKO Boston stage show is merely a sound statement of fact.

The new Cab Calloway band-with-revue show has talent bustin' out all over like quills on a porcupine . . . or Easter shoppers on Washington and Winter sts.

It is a solid click from the salubrious start . . . with the old maestro cutting loose with a smash medley of his signature tunes . . . to the socko finish . . . with the three Peters Sisters, Cab's beef trust of harmony and rhythm, clowning and scale-climbing like crazy.

It's a mad and wonderful aggregation Calloway has assembled this semester. The Cab-way was never hotter or sweeter, and there isn't an instant that the musical genius behind this click hot and sweet stuff isn't in there master-minding his honey-drip-music-makers.

His classic solo blending of "Minnie, the Moucher," "Smokey Joe," "St. James Infirmary" and "Jumping Jive" is a slick opener for such smart acts as the jitter-bug Three Poms, three gals whose tap-dancing is strictly cats, and Moke and Doke and their that's-no-joke sass and stepping.

Trombonist Tyree Glenn is featured in the band selection, "Don't Blame Me," and it is strictly earworthy. The recently recorded "Honeydripper" is truly a honey as the Calloway boys did it at yesterday's opening show, and the words are also all nice for Ike Quebec-featured "I've Got the World on a String" band number.

In a word, if sweet-and-hot is your musical order, the hi-de-ho'ing at the RKO is your dish. Like cracker-jack, you'll eat it up and scream for more.

Holding over on the screen for the third week is that A-1 thriller, "The Spiral Staircase," with Ethel Barrymore and Dorothy McGuire.

"Broadway's Voice," by Dorothy Kilgallen, daily in the Boston American.

'The Sailor Takes a Wife' Causes Chuckles at Loew's

A bedroom farce with the flower-fresh June Allyson and Robert Walker, the bobbysockers' dreamboat, as the parties of the first and second part, turns out to be light, bright entertainment, geared for nice Lent-end business.

This would be Metro's "The Sailor Takes a Wife," which is now unreeling a topical, chuckle-some story of young marrieds on Loew's twin screens.

Boston's own boy-who-made-good on screen, stage and in the paint-and-palette department, Richard Whorf, directed with considerable skill this lightly tragic story that depends so heavily on expert direction and sympathetic portrayals by the youthful mister and missus.

It's a quickie marriage . . . the two marrying on only an evening's acquaintance. Each is keyed up to a sudden parting, for he is in his country's service and may be sent overseas any day now.

But their exalted mood of stiff-upper-lip sacrifice gets a jolt when he is immediately if honorably discharged and becomes an uncomfortably unromantic civilian.

This reverse-play gives an amusing twist to the moonlight-and-honeysuckle him-and-her formula. The young job-hunter (Robert Walker) innocently tangles with Audrey Whatta-Siren Totter and the sweet, young bride is distressfully dewy-eyed.

Just as innocently she finds herself suspect in relation to her former boss, Hume Croyn, who frankly has what used to be called designs on her.

What with thissa and thatta, as the Record's ace columnist, Dave Egan, would say, the interference gets too tough for Kid Kupid until the final sequence, a situation not in the least unsual in the usual bedroom farce.

Reginald Owen, as Miss Totter's prosperous boy friend, and Eddie "Rochester" Anderson, as the handyman in the honeymooner apartment building, turn in performances that smartly complement the starring contributions of Miss Allyson and Walker.

Edwin H. Knopf can take a bow for the production, and Johnny Green and Irving Warburton for the score.

New Midnight At Old Howard

The new midnight show opens tonight at the Old Howard with Valerie Parks, Dolores Dawn, Sherri (the Southern Belle) and comics Sammy Smith and Joey Cowan the bright, not too particular stars.

Always an important program item are the 30 song-and-dance girls. Conny Ryan is to be mistress of ceremonies and Dick Lane, the featured singer.

The act, Birdland, featuring man's feathered friends, and Harlem's dancing Wingfoot Turner head the vaudeville section of the bill.

The film attractions are to be "1001 Nights" and "Dancing in Manhattan," plus the latest newsreels.

Cartoon Carnival Due At Keith Memorial

Surgery on Tiny Bile Duct Saves Life of Baby Girl

SAN FRANCISCO, April 19 (AP)—An unusual operation performed on a baby only 35 days old has saved thec hild from virtually early death and started her on the road to a normal life, the University of California Medical School reported today.

The infant is Karen Whitgrove, daughter of Army Air Force Capt. and Mrs. Raymond F. Whitgrove of Sacramento. She was born with an obstruction of the common bile duct which prevented flow of bile into the upper part of the small intestine. Without a free flow of bile, normal digestion is impossible and the victim usually dies in less than a year.

Karen weighed only seven pounds when she went on the operating table. The tiny organs presented a special problem to the operating surgeon, Dr. Leon Goldman of the medical school. Even in a full-grown person the common bile duct in only about three inches long. In Karen's case Dr. Goldman was confronted with a job of miniature surgery. He reconstructed the tiny duct.

Karen's family recentlf reported she had developed into a normal, healthy baby.

Hoover to Complete Survey Before Return

WASHINGTON, April 19 (AP)—President Truman agreed today Herbert Hoover should complete his famine survey in foreign countries before returning to the United States.

The White House announced the President reached this decision in a telephone conversation with the former President, who spoke from Cairo, from where he will join the President in a world-wide radio broadcast tonight.

Hope to Find Home

JEAN HENDRIE and Henry G. Simonds Jr., popular members of the post deb and Harvardian social set, are keeping their eyes on the real estate ads in hopes of having a home to move into after their marriage in June.

June 15 is the date of their wedding which will be a fashionable one at lovely St. Stephen's Church, Cohasset, where the famous carillon given by Mrs. Hugh Bancroft chimes for every bride. The reception will be at the home of Jean's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Percy M. Hendrie. The attractive blonde bride-to-be made her debut in '41-'42 and is a member of the Junior League and Vincent Club.

Her fiance is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry G. Simonds of Brookline. He attended Harvard before entering the Army and belongs to Iroquois, Fly and Hasty Pudding Clubs.

His four sisters and six other close friends of the bride will attend Jean on her wedding day. Mrs Howard R. Gleason (Elizabeth Stearns) of Cleveland, formerly of Cohasset, will be matron of honor. The four Simonds girls in the bridal party will be Mrs. John H. Page of Cleveland, Mrs. Edward L. Bigelow, Jr., Ellen and 11-year-old Amy who will be a junior bridesmaid.

Mrs. Anthony Whittemore

Completing the attractive bevy of bridesmaids are Ann Folsom, Hingham; Lydia Gifford, Boston; Marian Stickney, Stoneham; Mrs. Anthony Whittemore (Kitty Binnian), Cohasset, and Mrs. Stephen Harris Squibb (Margaret Benedict) of Providence.

MR. AND MRS. JAMES H. GREW of Phillips Academy entertained at dinner for Albert Chambon, French consul to Boston and Mme. Chambon before the Cercle Francais meeting and reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alan R. Blackmer, Phillips Academy, this week.

ROUND AND ABOUT: Even sociaglits like to chase fires, especially newlywed Gwen and Bill Foster who were glimpsed hustling across a meadow to watch a big brush fire on Milton Parkway. Better your home... better your Living

HOME . . . really now, what's there to it?

Shelter from rain, protection from sun and snow, shield from prying eyes? A place in which to sleep, to change clothes, to take a bath? A spot to go to when you want to be alone — away from everybody, everything?

But it can be, oh, so much, much more — if only you'll let it! It can say to a husband, "Welcome home, darling — here's your slumber chair, and your pipe and your slippers."

It can say to a wife, "Relax, sweetheart — take it easy — here's that dream world of mechanical housekeeping to bring you new leisure."

It can say to those swell children, "Why not bring your schoolmates over — here's your new rumpus room, your own special play spot, full of your own things."

It can say to your friends, "Come in, join our fun — this is our hearthside, our haven, our home . . . the most wonderful thing that ever happened to anybody!"

All these things it can say. All these things it can be. All these things it can do for you — if you'll only do a little for it!

And you'd better begin right now. Begin by getting yourself a "home" magazine and studying its pages . . . by dreaming and planning and figuring budgets. Then walk into the nearest good store, look at their model rooms and the home wares on display . . . let your dreams take a deep breath of reality, take a present to your home — if only a new picture or a door mat. Do that instead of dribbling away dollars on unessentials.

Other people know — and you must never forget — that good people come from good homes.

Market Break Suspect Seized

Found hiding in a storage ice box, a 22-year-old North End prize fighter was arrested at gunpoint today by Patrolman Donald Penny while investigating a break in the Landy Beef Co., Blackstone st., market district.

Penny spotted the store's door open before daylight and, when searching the premises, came upon the North End youth. Later, three alleged companions of the pugilist were found in the vicinity and taken into custody.

All were held for questioning in a lineup tomorrow.

Back to Army For Ike's Old Chief

CHICAGO, April 19 (AP)—To former Sgt. James Martin, 34, an invitation from Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower is a command.

After Martin received a telegram yesterday telling him there was a place for him behind the cook stove as the general's chef, he made arrangements to leave his job as chef at the Eastgate Hotel and return to the Army.

He also began studying up on the private recipes gathered while he cooked for Gen. Eisenhower through England, France and Germany. But he said how he prepares "the general's" favorite dishes will remain a secret.

"Why I might be giving away a couple of extra stripes if I let anyone know how to prepare the general's meals," the stocky Negro chef said. He added, however, the general favored roast of beef, fish "which has to be cooked a special way," quail, pheasant and other fowl.

"One thing, though," Martin recalled, "when Gen. Eisenhower gets a yen for vegetable soup it's time for the chef to get out of the kitchen. He likes to make that himself, with nobody looking on."

Home Garden Forum

By FOSTER H. WEISS

Head of Vegetable Gardening Dept., Norfolk County Agricultural School.

Q—When should I start mowing the lawn? The grass is 2 inches high now.

A—In the spring, it is best to cut the grass when it is 1½ inches high. Set mower so that it will be 1½ inches from the ground. Leave clippings and the lawn should not become too badly infested with weeds.

Q—How many tomato plants should I order for a family of five?

A—Plan to set one dozen plants for each person. This will give you a supply for canning as well as for fresh use.

Q—Should the asparagus bed be limed each year?

A—Before liming an asparagus bed, it will be well to have the soil tested. If the soil was properly limed before the bed was set, a light application every three years should keep the P. H. range right.

Q—When can I transplant ground phlox?

A—Ground phlox or moss phlox can be transplanted now if watered well. This species is hardy and can be transplanted any time during the summer.

Q—What shrub can I use for a hedge on our boundary line that will keep animals out?

A—A good hardy hedge for this purpose is the barberry. If well fertilized, it will grow fast and thick.

Q—Are bees necessary to pollinate tomatoes?

A—No. Tomatoes will pollinate without insects. The general shaking by wind will do the job.

Q—Will squash and pumpkins cross?

A—No. As they belong to different families, there is no danger of crossing.

Poultry for Easter Dinner

By MARTHA LEE, Household Editor

POULTRY MEAT is in abundant supply and that's one excellent reason for making it the main dish for Easter dinner. Serve it roasted, broiled, or fried, as the taste of your family dictates. In fact, there are just dozens of ways it can be cooked—whether it's fowl, chicken or turkey.

Cut-up broilers are featured in many meat markets. For a very special dinner, it is possible to buy only breasts, or breasts and thighs. For stews, creamed chicken, or salad, some of the less popular pieces such as necks, backs, wings and drumsticks are not only less expensive but have more flavor than the more tender pieces.

POTATO STUFFING FOR CHICKEN

2 cups unseasoned mashed potato
1 cup day-old bread crumbs
1 egg, beaten
1 tbsp. finely minced onion
1/8 cup fat, melted
1 tsp. salt   1/8 tsp. pepper
1 tsp. sage

Combine all ingredients and pile lightly into the bird. Or use in place of bread stuffing in meat roasts.

CHICKEN WITH RICE

2 1/2 to 3 1/2-lb. young chicken, cut up
1/2 cup flour   1 1/2 tsp. salt
1 tsp. paprika   1/4 tsp. pepper
1/8 cup fat for frying
3 cups boiling water
3/4 cup rice, washed   1/2 tsp. salt
1 onion, or 1 clove garlic
Paprika   Parsley

Mix flour, salt, paprika and pepper; rub into chicken. Brown in the hot fat. When nicely browned, reduce heat, add boiling water and sliced onion (or garlic). Add rice. Sprinkle the half teaspoon salt over rice. Cover tightly, cook gently over low heat or in moderate oven (300 deg. F.) until chicken is tender (3/4 to 1 hour, depending on size of pieces), rice is fluffy and water is evaporated. Remove garlic if used. Serve on a hot platter, with chicken around mound of rice. Garnish with parsley and paprika. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Frozen-in-Ice Easter Effect

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE
Beauty and Fashion Editor

THIS YEAR give her Easter flowers in perfume form. And for this joyous holiday a noted cosmetic house has created a magnificently appropriate new package.

It's difficult to describe this utterly different package-of-the-future . . . even for me when words are my stock in trade. Your first impression of it is that the famous golden crown bottle has been frozen inside a small block of ice.

Actually, it is two squares of crystal lucite molded to fit the crown bottle . . . and not the solid block it seems to be. For when the gold cord around the package is untied . . . the two sides separate gently to present a golden crown holding one of four truly gorgeous perfumes. A small nosegay of plastic flowers is also embedded in one corner of the lucite.

In natural color and three-dimensional . . . these posies, like the bottle, can be seen from every side of the package . . . thus heightening the flower-frozen-in-the-ice effect. We're so completely taken with the package . . . we haven't left much room to tell the story of the perfume. Suffice it to say that when the package is so stunning and exquisite . . .

For the name of this bottled perfume suspended in lucid loveliness, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, Monday through Saturday, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Hard to Get--Now Sorry

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: I am a teen-ager, and a while ago I met a boy whom I admired a lot and I knew he liked me a lot. But we were only friends and we were never really serious.

This fellow introduced me to his older brother, who is three years older than I. His brother became interested in me, and soon we began going out together. After some time he asked me to go steady with him. This was very sudden, so I asked him for some time to think it over, but I never did give him the answer.

He began to phone me frequently, and often asked if he could see me right then, but I always had an excuse for not seeing him. Soon after, he didn't phone for a long while, and I began to worry. I finally got in touch with him, and his only excuse was that he was busy.

Now we have been going together awhile, and again he fails to call or get in touch with me. I like him a lot. What shall I do? MARGARET.

Looks as if this boy were giving you a little of your own medicine, don't you think, Margaret? You evidently overdid the "hard to get" act. You wouldn't give him any answer about "going steady" with him, and you wouldn't see him when he wanted you to, so now he's going to play at your game. Maybe he's even lost a little of his interest in you, which it seems to me would be quite understandable after the treatment you gave him. I'm afraid there's not much you can do but wait and see if he calls you again, in which case I'd certainly act more interested than you have to date. And don't be so coy with the next fellow.

BRIDEGROOM AT SHOWER?

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:
Is it the usual procedure for the prospective bridegroom to be present at a shower given for the prospective bride?
R. H.

No, not the usual procedure at a shower held in the daytime. But if the shower is held in the evening, often men are invited to come about an hour and a half after the girls arrive, after the presents have been opened by the guest of honor.

(Mrs. Beeckman will be glad to answer questions on Good Manners submitted by readers.)

Wedding in Home Of the Bridegroom

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:
Is it proper under any circumstances for the bride to be married in the home of the bridegroom? M. K.

It is not proper to have the ceremony performed in the bridegroom's home unless for some special reason, some reason that would be understood and accepted by those who are to be present at the ceremony, some reason that would not put the bride or her family in a position to be criticized for not assuming the wedding obligations they are supposed to assume.

(Mrs. Beeckman will be glad to answer questions on Good Manners submitted by readers.)

Simple Little Dress—Vera Jacobs

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE

Beauty and Fashion Editor

Designers Dress You for Spring

FASHION is what a woman makes of it. It is her keen intuitiveness...as to the sort of clothes to put on her well-turned back...that will win her admiring glances and sincere applause.

This Spring there are many definite style trends... certain designing conclusions geared to the tempo of the times...which make for a new and different silhouette. But don't expect...nor try...nor want...to find them all in one costume.

As always, suits are in the lead. The majority of women count on the lightweight warmth of the suit and its suitability for wear either with furs or under a coat. But YOUR suit can be any one of a number of types...all equally smart and a la mode this season.

There's the slim dressmaker suit with the long, fitted jacket...the youthful bolero suit, either in wool or bengaline...the short jacket suit featuring cuffed or pushup short sleeves...the tunic suit with all-around peplum or short front and swallow-tail back.

And there's the "simple little dress"..,Vera Jacobs' notable achievement which has placed her in the front designing ranks... the dress that is so universally liked and so universally appealing. Although Vera Jacobs' creations for Capri Originals include suits, street and afternoon dresses and formal clothes...her "simple little dress" is outstanding.

It is a gracious dress with the "younger set" look...a subtly executed dress with casual smartness and nonchalant distinction yet true to the fashion dictates of the season.

(Tomorrow's Designer: Madeleine)

BUTTERFLIES cut from the fabric motif are appliqued in clusters over one shoulder... antidiagonally across the bodice of this afternoon print designed by Vera Jacobs for Capri Originals. Pink and green on black . . . it is pretty and practical as well as cool and comfortable. Skirt fullness gives the frock freedom of motion.

A LONG, slim-fitting jacket . . . belted in back and to be worn over a slightly flared skirt . . . is Vera Jacobs' selection for the tall woman. Striped pink and black wool jersey makes the smart contrast for this suit in men's wear gray flannel . . . completed with a middy blouse of the striped jersey.

DUTCH BOY influence is reflected in this navy wool jersey dress which its designer, Vera Jacobs, uses in her own personal wardrobe. The marching vertical rows of buttons . . . narrow-belted waistline accenting a freer, fuller skirt with side-pocket, make the silhouette . . . so youthful and pert. The red grosgrain bow is a cute touch.

THE "simple little dress" can do so much for a woman. She knows intuitively that simplicity is smartness and can win her many fashion plaudits. She doesn't have to look as though she worked in every dress she owns, but neither must she dress to look as though every day was a lawn party calling.

I have chosen three street costumes for a spring wardrobe. There is the gray flannel suit with horizontal-striped blouse and lapels which is perfect for the taller woman. For the medium-height woman I have picked the gay little butterfly print with cut-out appliqued butterflies to give the frock a dressier look. It can be worn for all occasions, both under a coat and later all through the summer months.

For the shorter woman, there is the dress which I wear myself: a navy wool jersey with two rows of buttons placed vertically down the front of the waist. It has a tendency to make one look taller. Worn early under a coat, it is ideal for street wear later on in place of a suit.

Leaves From B. A. A.'s Old Marathon Album

By AUSTEN LAKE

OF ALL EVENTS which make the business of sport literature a goofy delight, the one which starts in the leafy country lane at Hopkinton tomorrow ranks first on the list. The B. A. A. Marathon, or forgotten man's joy, when a cavalcade of athletic artisans of all ages, shapes and conditions, go twitching and snorting over the landscape for the sake of blistered feet and upset stomach.

Austen Lake

It belongs to Boston tradition like Dr. Walter Kendall's Wheel-About-the-Hub, Mother Goose's grave and Louisburg sq. It has been going on for 50 years as the biggest and freest sport spectacle on earth and witnessed by a million spectators who line the way between Lucky Rock Manor and Exeter st. to catch glimpses of the runners' convulsions. And to one who followed the semi-psychopathic procession during prewar years, there are memories, to wit and viz:

DeMar's Golden Years

1920—SCRAWNY JIMMY HENNIGAN trundling along in the lead at Brae-Burn and Arthur Roth sneering, "S'Long, Chimmy," as he plodded slowly away. Behind Roth and Hennigan the dark-skinned figure of an unknown, Peter Trivoulides, inching up and finally overtaking the scoffer at the Harvard Club to go on and win the Bay Leaves. Trivoulides, the cafe bus boy, who gained fleeting fame and then faded back to the limbo of forgotten men, never to be heard from again.

1922, '23, '24—Lean, sun bitten Clarence DeMar, like a human sphinx, with his rockinghorse lope and the mechanical precision of an airplane motor, the monotonous perfection of his pace making the long grind seem simple. The amazing antique who will make the sentimental journey again tomorrow, snowshoeing along in the rear, content to watch the churn of other runner's rumps and listen to the rhythmic chuf-chuf as younger men pass by.

1925—Chuck Mellor, wearing heavy mittens on his hands and thicknesses of newspaper under his shirt to offset the bleak April winds and swirl of snow, Mellor stuffing his jaws with eating tobacco until the slack of his cheeks looked like an ulcerated tooth. Mellor plodding along like a tramp tourist, looking curiously at the crowd, a spectator to his own victory and finishing with contemptuous ease.

1926—Albin Stenroos, the 1924 Finnish Olympic champion and popular favorite jogging shoulder to shoulder with Johnny Miles, a nameless Nova Scotian. And Miles pulling away from the nauseated Finn on Newton's "heartbreak hills" to create a new course record and ask "Who was that guy?" meaning Stenroos.

1928—The immortal, puckish Joie Ray running his first Marathan in the hope of earning a free ride to the Olympic games and slogging along with his shoes soggy with blood and his heels twin, crimson smears. So that, after finishing third, the B.A.A. surgeons cut his shoes from his feet, careful lest they lift sections of skin and flesh that adhered to the leather. Ray on crutches threatened with septic poisoning for weeks.

1932—Johnny McLeod leading the field at Coolidge corner by so long a margin that the following runners were not yet in sight. And Johnny, after breaking all records to this point, growing pale with abdominal cramps so that his face was suddenly ashen, his eyes bloodshot and his lips slack and drooling as he wobbled to a walk. The rest of the herd going by while Johnny reeled and retched at the curbstone, recovering in time to finish 27th. Paul DeBruyn, the thickset Teuton, with a build like a wrestler, being crowned the winner at Exeter street while Johnny was carted away in a delirium.

The Rise of Johnny Kelly

1934—DAVE KOMONEN, the Finnish mine carpenter and Johnny Kelly, slender Arlington florist's helper, matching stride for stride like Siamese twins. Komonen handing Johnny cups of water that came from the first aid station and letting the slim youth drink first. Johnny sharing his lemon halves, handed from the sidelines by his four brothers, stationed along the route. The two jogging along and slupping the bitter juices as they ran. And finally Komonen giving a farewell, friendly grin, as he turned into Beacon st., and beginning the final spurt that Johnny could not answer.

1935—Kelly, remembering his last experience, settling down to shadow the blocky Komonen as the "man-to-watch." Komonen being trailed by a swarm of hopefuls, Pawson, DeBruyn, Larmond and Lalm. The Finn suffering from gas bubbles at Natick and Johnny moving out after a high numbered unknown with 175 on his back. Komonen slowing down to a trot, a walk and lifting a ghastly mask as the press cars rolled by. Kelly taking glucose tablets before breasting the Newton hills, fast fuel but dangerous and disordering. Someone sloshing him with water at Lake st., and the last uphill agony.

Johnny, near collapse at Kenmore sq. when he whoed down and paused to heave convulsively, fighting the mist from his brain before Pat Dengis could close the quarter mile gap, and going on with a last leaden lope to spend his dying energies in a wobbly spurt toward the funnel opening in the crowd at Exeter st. It was Good Friday and the best Friday Johnny ever knew.

1942—First of the war years when Joe Smith, the Medford milkman, established a new course record, 26 minutes, 51 1-5 seconds, to breeze in from Lake st. with Lou Gregory, a Cornell scholar, Carl Moroney and Johnny Kelly forming his comet tail. Joe immediately leaving the finish line to join the Coast Guard.

'43-'44—Warren Cote, Canadian Army sergeant wagtailing beside Kelly, to whom he was always a jinx, Cote following the same pattern both times and pointing his emotionless mask grimly ahead, to leave Johnny at Lake st. after cracking his heart on the Newton Hills with his internal chemistry curdled, a feeling of loose bird shot in his throat and a headful of live steam.

1945—Johnny Kelly, winning again after ten years, out front all the way and leading a little Coast Guardsman named Lloyd Bairstow, who timed his final "kick" too late because he hadn't been able to train and stayed overcautiously off the pace.

Tomorrow—The roadside start at Tebeau Farm when the hairy limbed horde comes clawing and clattering down the leafy lane, to add history to the poor man's pleasure, another lap in sports' finest squirrel cage dementia, another B. A. marathon, another dip of the knee to Boston tradition.

Offer $250 a Share for Stock in Suffolk Oval

By JACK CONWAY

A PROMINENT Boston broker has a customer who is offering $250 a share for stock in Suffolk Downs . . . On the basis of $250 a share the stock in the East Boston race track is worth $7,500,000 . . . Attorney Maurice Simon of Beacon street, who will head one of the groups that will bid for Suffolk Downs at a public auction at the Copley Plaza on May 1, picked up 1900 shares of the track's stock about a year ago for less than $100 a share . . . The new price represents an increase of over $250,000 in the value of the 1900 shares.

Lou Smith

A mere hop of 100 points or so in the value of a race track stock only causes Messrs. Lou Smith, Sam Garfield and Irving Gushen to remark, "What of it?" in view of the spectacular move in the stock of the Monmouth Jockey Club at Oceanport, N. J., which was put on the market at a penny a share and which is selling around $17 a share . . . Even a $1000 plater has yet to step on to the grounds of the Jersey racing plant which is hurrying construction of its stands and the widening of its racing surface so that it will be ready for its grand opening on June 10.

Mike Jacobs, the boxing promoter who lives at Red Bank, which is adjacent to Oceanport, N. J., says there will be 600,000 summer residents within easy riding distance of Monmouth Park.

Bobby Ahearn called this writer on the telephone from the Bay Meadows tracks in California to state that Bill Kyne will place $100,000 on the line the first of next week as his starting fee in the Suffolk Downs Bidding Derby . . . Bobby added that Kyne has held conversations with members of the Simco syndicate which has as its counsel former Atty.-Gen. Paul A. Dever, who served in the Navy as a commander.

Scooped by Colonel

AND WAS my face red when I found that I had been scooped on my own story by Col. Dave Egan, who wrote as follows in his column in the Daily Record:

"Didja know that Jack Conway of the American has notified the Suffolk Downs set that he will not serve there in any capacity this season, but instead will hie himself to the training camps of Joe Louis and Billy Conn as the number-one boxing expert for the Hearst papers?"

Thirty-six hours late I am verifying the Colonel's scoop.

Who do you like, Louis or Conn? . . . After I have seen the rival heavyweights in action in their training camps, I shall try to come up with the right answer . . . It will be boxing's biggest show . . . It will overshadow any previous heavyweight match . . . The title bout is set for June 19 at the Yankee Stadium, New York . . . The ticket rush is already on in force despite the $100 top for ringside seats . . . Attorney Joe Blumsack of Somerville dropped down to the ringside at the Garden the other night and asked this writer to buy him five of the precious $100 pasteboards.

Col. Egan has promised to join me at the training camps, and I shall do my best to see that he does not scoop me any more . . . If Austen Lake can find time between his numerous trips to Europe, he will also drop in at the training camps . . . Lake is hopping to Europe so frequently he must have a commuter's ticket . . . he has shattered even Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt's travel record.

Charlton at 'Gansett

JUDGE JAMES E. DOOLEY made an excellent choice when he once more named the capable Norman Charlton to serve as a steward at the Narragansett Park meeting that opens tomorrow . . . Charlton knows all the answers in racing, is fair to the horsemen and jockeys, and is fearless in his rulings . . . Charlton also will serve as a steward at Rockingham Park this year.

Edward T. Dooley, son of Judge James E. Dooley, will serve in the placing judges' stand at Narragansett with Gordon Morrow, racing secretary at Pascoag and the new Lincoln, R. I., track, and Henry J. Carroll who is aide to Ty Shea . . . Kenneth (Red) McIntosh will be paddock judge, while Eben Pons, Jr., will be clerk of scales . . . Henry McKenna, Boston Herald sports writer, will be a patrol judge along with James Butwell, an oldtime jockey; Harry Fiske and Arthur Hunt . . . Hunt is a former outrider at Suffolk Downs and Narragansett Park, and during the war he served four years in the Pacific . . . Buddy Wingfield will get the horses away from the barrier.

It is expected that the State of Rhode Island will once more name "Hap" Fenelon as its representative in the stewards' stand.

Nimrod Smith Carries Message

WILLIAMS LAKE, B. C., April 19 (AP)—O. P. Smith, 66-year-old fisherman and prospector who left Vancouver 10 days ago to paddle his canoe to New York, has passed through this Cariboo district town.

The elderly fisherman is carrying a letter of greeting from acting Mayor Charles Thompson of Vancouver to Mayor O'Dwyer of New York.

Kansas City Team New Pure Ice Champ

KANSAS CITY, April 19 (AP)—The Kansas City Pla-Mors were the new champions of the United States Hockey League today by virtue of their 6-5 victory over the Tulsa Oilers in an extra period playoff game here last night.

The victory gave the Pla-Mors four games out of six. Larry Silvestri hit the winning goal, with an assist from Tommy Fowler.

JANIRO, TAYLOR SIGNED

NEW YORK, April 19 (AP)—Tony Janiro, Youngstown, Ohio, welterweight, will meet Chuck Taylor of Coalport, Pa., in a 10-round boxing bout at Madison Square Garden June 14, Promoter Mike Jacobs announced.

Field Powerful Enough To Force New BAA Mark

By MIKE GILLOOLY

Hundreds of thousands of spectators will nod their heads in collective and puzzled wonderment along the 26-mile, 385-yard BAA Marathon course from Hopkinton to Boston tomorrow—just as they've done for the past 50 years—as they spot remnants of the 116 starters wearying their way along in the most gruelling of sports tests.

They'll mumble, "They're nuts!", after the field has passed but they'll be back again and again to catch a glimpse of the annual classic.

They'll start to quit the line a dozen times but they'll wait 'until Clarence DeMar comes through'. The tiniest tot and the most ancient by-stander in sports want to spot the seven-time winner of this madcap affair (he'll be wearing No. 94), probably following a flock of younger and fleeter runners along the lengthy journey.

DeMar will be in there but he's hardly conceded a chance of winning. He's just coming along for the run—and possibly for sentiment's sake.

He'll be up against too powerful a field, as a matter of fact, a surprisingly powerful field for a race that was nearly cancelled out of the sports picture for the year. It has been delayed a day because of Good Friday but that will be the only major change from the past 49 years. They'll still start at noon and they'll finish around 2:30 o'clock at the old BAA clubhouse on Exeter st., now the property of Boston University whose officials paved the way for the race when the going was dimmest last month.

There's a possibility that the first of the plodders will labor across the finish line before that time. There's strong enough competition to force a new record, cracking the time set by Joe Smith at 2:26.51 1-5 in 1942.

Gerard Cote of Canada, out of the race last year while serving overseas, has his heart set on retirement after he chalks up his fourth victory in the BAA. He hasn't been beaten over the pavements since 1943 and, in his only local effort this season, he romped against a handicapped field in the North Medford 20-mile jaunt. Cote captured the laurel wreath in 1940, '43 and '44.

He's confident, knows the opposition inside out, and he's just good enough to win.

GERORD COTE
May Retire if He Wins

Some authorities feel it will be a two-man affair between the cigar-smoking Canadian and Johnnie Kelley of West Acton, defending champion. Kelley shed his "bridesmaid" cognomen last year, proved to the local backers that he was in condition by smiling his way to victory in the Reddish A. A. 15-miler a month ago, and since has been working up a grudge against Cote in setting his sights on this meeting.

However, one of the nation's outstanding authorities on marathoning, Tom Kanaly of the Boston Garden, feels that the BAA's own Lloyd Bairstow, a 23-year-old Coast Guardsman with four years of service in his wake, could upset the entire beef-stew wagon. Bairstow, second in '45, could provide the drama of the year in becoming the first BAA man to win the race on its Golden Anniversary.

But if it's drama the fans want, what could be more appropriate than having Stylianos Kyriakides, a modern Pheidippides from Athens, Greece, take the wreath back to its native land? That would be the Hollywood finish and that could be the BAA finish if the sociable, 'olive-skinned invader from the war-torn land had his way.

Any one of a dozen top-notchers could win it. They'll tell you a lot will depend on the weather just where the above mentioned—or how Charlie Robbins, national champion; Tarzan Brown, a two-time winner; Don Heinicke, third last year; Lloyd Evans, fifth last year; Tony Madeiros, eighth last spring; Lou Gregory and Willie Wicklund finish.

100,000 Expected At Indian Games

CLEVELAND, April 19 (AP)—Rising baseball enthusiasm here caused Tribe officials today to predict a total attendance of 100,000 fans for the two-game series tomorrow and Sunday between the Cleveland Indians and Detroit Tigers.

"I've never seen anything like it," Roger Peckinpaugh, vice-president of the club, commented yesterday following the team's arrival from Chicago. "There is a tremendous interest in our district."

Manager Lou Boudreau said Steve Gromek, member of the "Big Four" of the Indians' pitching staff, would get the mound assignment tomorrow. Dizzy Trout was expected to oppose him.

'8 in a Row,' Cry Sox

By HERB FINNEGAN

Eight in a row! That was the war cry of the league-leading Red Sox today as they detrained at Back Bay after their sweep of the three-game series in Washington.

You see, the 1945 Sox lost their first eight games, and Pesky, Di Madge, Williams & Co. who were off to the wars at the time had just been apprised of the fact. They didn't like it.

So they're determined to whip the A's in the home opener tomorrow, and beat Bobo Newsom and his partner in the Sunday twin bill. After that, the Senators will be in town for two days, and the Sox figure they've got the Indian sign on Bluege's boys.

They certainly had it on them in Washington. They licked them behind Tex Hughson in the opener 6-3, when Tex wasn't himself. They licked them behind Earl Johnson, 13-6, after Dave Ferriss was shelled from the box. And they licked them behind Mickey Harris in the third game, 3-1, when the Sox weren't overpowering the opposition with the stick.

That third game was most encouraging. Everybody knew the Sox could hit, but Cronin and the rest were doubtful that they had any pitching behind Hughson and Ferriss. So a pair of southpaws, Johnson and Harris, who hadn't pitched since 1941, stole the show.

Johnson gave up only 3 hits in 5 1-3 innings. Harris started and finished the final game, a six-hitter, and fanned seven. Best part of his strikeouts was that they came in the clutches. With men on first and third in the first, he fanned Sanford for the second out and got Travis on an infield roller.

In the fourth inning with two on, he fanned the dangerous Priddy for the third out. And with two on in the sixth, he fanned Heath for out No. 2.

"He was a pitcher out there," said Frankie Pytlak who replaced the injured Hal Wagner behind the bat. "He was never behind the hitter."

"He was better than I expected him to be," said Cronin, who was worried about Mickey's excess avoirdupois and his long absence from big league competition.

"I couldn't let my commanding officer down," cracked Harris. He was referring to Gen. Eisenhower who came out to see Williams hit. "But I was glad when it was over. I was getting tired."

Best play of the game from a Sox standpoint, came in the eighth when the Senators threatened to tie the score. Two were out when Heath walked. Priddy followed with a single to Metkovich in right. Heath rounded second, set sail for third, changed his mind and was shocked to find Pesky with the ball waiting to tag him out, which Pesky did.

"That's the play we practiced overtime in Sarasota," said Pesky. "I could have had Spence flat-footed on the same play in the fourth, but my throw wasn't sharp enough," said Williams.

Yes, it was a great start. The Sox players themselves are convinced they're the class of the league. As they played in Washington, it is doubtful if either the Yanks or Detroit could have stopped them. When their pitchers faltered, they overpowered the Senators. Then they got good pitching from practically unexpected sources. The future is bright.

Pesky had seven hits in 13 trips, better than .500 in the three games, Williams had 6 in 12, Wagner 4 in 7 . . . Hughson will pitch the home opener tomorrow, Ferriss will pitch one of the Sunday games . . . The Washington fans are on Heath, who was fanned by Johnson and Harris at critical moments. Yet Williams took him in tow after the game, said: "Jeff, don't let them get you down. You missed a couple of home runs by inches. Keep swinging, beat those Yanks."

JOHNSON HARRIS
Southpaws Stopped Nats

The Sox sang in the showers all during the series. Let's hope they can keep singing . . . Griff says the Senators can't draw in the daytime, yet 9947 saw the second game, 9872 the third after the opening day sellout. But perhaps Williams was the reason. The way the crowd waited for him to hit in the ninth and the "boos" they accorded Hudson for passing him would seem to indicate the home run king is the best drawing card since Ruth . . . "Ashes to ashes and dust to dust, if Williams don't get you, then Rudy must," cracked the press box wit after York doubled in the fifth.

Foxx Picks Sox

Jimmy Foxx, former Red Sox first baseman and, at present, a radio sportscaster, made a prediction to 2600 sick and wounded servicemen at the Lowell General Hospital, Fort Devens, that Joe Cronin's Sox would win the American League pennant this year.

He also rated Dom DiMaggio, Sox centerfield, as a better defensive player than his famous brother Joe of the Yankees.

Yawkey Views Sox at Fenway

Thomas Austin Yawkey paid his first '46 visit to Boston today and watched the Red Sox in morning practice at Fenway Park. He hadn't seen the Sox at Sarasota, so this was his first glimpse of Ted Williams in action since '42. Williams put on a show for the Sox owner, driving one ball against the wall in center field 420 feet from home plate.

Mention of the reputed sale of the Sox to Bing Crosby and Pat O'Brien brought only a smile from Yawkey.

"Believe it or not, but I never met Crosby in my life," he said. That should answer questions about my selling the club. In fact," he added, "'Bing's a St. Louis Browns man, isn't he? His pictures say so."

Yawkey plans to remain in Boston until May 5, or until all of the other seven clubs in the league have played here.

Record Entry In Hingham Field Trial

By "TAP" GOODENOUGH

With more than 70 pointers and setters already entered—a record number . . . the annual spring field trial of the Hingham Sportsman's Club, at Potters Field, Hingham, tomorrow and Sunday, bids fair to be one of the most successful in its history . . . Headed by past champion, Colonial Lady M, owned by Dr. John Meachen, of Boston, scores of classy canines will be seen in action, after liberated pheasants.

This sportsman has also entered Mary Lee Patsy and Bombardier while Victor Cook, Stoughton, named his Spunky Air Cadet . . . From Rhode Island come Peacedale Amos, Ed Frusella's champ; in addition to Walter Robishaw's Stylish Dictator, and many others.

Events include the Open Puppy Stake and the Open Derby, both set for tomorrow, the H. F. Loud and Son Trophy in the latter to be won three times for permanent possession . . . Sunday finds the Open All Age Stake commencing at 9:00 a. m., in which a Memorial Trophy, dedicated to World War veterans, has been donated by the Hingham Sportsman's Club.

To reach Potter's Field, take Route 128 to Main st., Hingham. The roads are posted from Queen Ann's corner and Hingham sq.

OUTDOOR O. O.'s—It is now legal to fish in all Maine counties except in Somerset County, where anglers must wait until waters are completely free of ice . . . Earl Doucette estimates that the ice will not disappear from Rangeley, Moosehead and Aroostook areas until May 1 . . . Good sport ought to be found at Sebago Lake this week-end, for the smelts will be running out of the brooks, with the salmon on hand to gobble 'em . . . Salmon taken here this spring have been larger than usual, and more trout have been hooked . . . No hot news from the Belgrade Lakes region yet, but big salmon and brook trout should hit soon.

The Second Annual Fisherman's Clinic, sponsored by the Boston YMCA, in the Huntington ave. building, starts Monday evening, followed by two more programs on April 29 and May 6 . . . Ollie Rodman, well-known expert and editor, will demonstrate the equipment necessary for all types of salt water fishing, including surf casting, big game fishing and the like, at the initial meeting . . . The Clinic is open to the public.

Casey Pins DeGlane In Straight Falls

Steve Casey defeated Henri DeGlane in two straight falls in the feature wrestling bout at the Arena last night. The falls, both with leg locks, came at 17:49 and 9:26.

Pat Kelley pinned Ed McNeil, 12:10. Chief Osley Saunooke and Olaf Olsen went 30 minutes to a draw. Tom Casey and Gus Manlapeg did the same in 20-minutes.

Diamond-Grid Clinic Hold All-Day Session

Schoolboy baseball and football will be verbally cooked tomorrow as coaches from the entire state meet at the Oxford Club, Lynn, for the first annual clinic of the Northeastern conference—opening the day-long session at 9 a. m. and carrying through to banquet time at 5.

Chariman Gordie Connors, normally the Winthrop High School all-round sports coach, has lined up an impressive array of speakers for the affair, one of the biggest ever attempted in schoolboy ranks.

Representatives from the Braves and Red Sox will open the program in the morning, turned over completely to baseball . . . Floyd Stahl of Harvard, Irving "Bump" Hadley, ex-Yankee and Eddie Boyle, umpire, will follow . . . the grid session in the afternoon will list Dennie Myers, Walt Holmer, Al McCoy, Joe McKenney, John "Ox" DaGrosa, Henry Hormel, Swede Nelson, Dick Dunkel and Herb Kopf.

The Frank E. Reed trophy will be awarded to the outstanding three-sport athlete in the Conference . . . he'll be from either Amesbury, Danvers ,Marblehead, Newburyport, Swampscott or Winthrop.

Concord's annual invitation track meet, a Patriot's Day feature, will be held tomorrow with Belmont, Lexington and Watertown battling the host club for top honors . . . three special trophies in honor of three former Concord High athletes who died in World War II will be awarded . . . they'll be the Merton Sanborn trophy; the Thomas Hanley trophy, and the Joseph Sheehan trophy.

Boston Technical School will have a special dinner for its championship hockey team Monday night, April 29, with the fathers of the boys as guests . . . headmaster D. Leo Daley promises the party-goers wil be served filet mignons . . . two of the Bruins' team will be guest speakers.

That same night, Ed "Skip" Sherlock's "boys" will be tendering a testimonial to the veteran coach at the Hyde Park municipal building . . . there's a very active committee working on this event, including Conn O'Brien, Jake Driscoll, Johnny Hayes, Bernie and Kewpie Kilroy, Dutch Kramer, Cliff Shaw, Joe Canty, Duke Foley, Tom McGarry, Charlie Patrone, Joe Shea, Al Ricci, Ed Harrington, Leo Slattery, Ed Monahan and Bill MacInnes.

Then, there's the High School of Commerce banquet at the high school gym next Wednesday with the basketball team of Coach Gene Plociennick as guests of honor . . . Gov. Maurice Tobin, an alumnus, will be head speaker . . . John Canty at the school will accept reservations . . . the Book-Keepers were the first Boston team to enter the Tech Tourney.

Eagles Tackle N. U. Ball Club

Fred Maguire's Eagles open their baseball season tomorrow, when they tangle with Northeastern in the resumption of the diamond game on a formal status at Boston College.

Roger York, brilliant right hand giant, will toe the mound for B. C. and will probably face Frank Coole, portsider chucker for the Huskies. Both York and Coole are Belmont boys.

York, reported for baseball only last week. The former Waterville, Me., tosser had several offers from organized ball and did not decide to pitch at B. C. until last Tuesday. Since that time he has been so sensational, Maguire listed him as the game's starter.

Northeastern, victor over Tufts (5-3) and B. U. (7-1), will be a top heavy favorite, although Maguire promises that his charges will score an upset.

B. C. will have York on the hill, Bob Fitzgerald behind the plate, John Spinner on first, Jerry Daunt on second, Tom Maloney at third, and John Yurewicz at short. In the outfield will be Bob Lynch, John Bukley, and either Sam Luizzo, Bernie Lanoue or Al Toomey.

Louis Retains Weight Despite Light Training

WEST BADEN, Ind., April 19 (AP)—Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis has only 10 more days of his "relaxation" training here before he begins stiff workouts at Pompton Lakes, N. J., for his June fight with Billy Conn.

Trainer Mannie Seamon said he would leave next Wednesday for New Jersey, via Detroit, to get the Baumgartner camp organized for the Bomber. Louis will follow April 29.

Louis still scales 218 pounds, a matter of two or three pounds less than he weighed when he came here six weeks ago. Seamon says he can easily take off 10 more pounds and that would be enough.

Eddie Tryon Hobart Coach

GENEVA, N. Y., April 19 (AP)—J. Edward (Eddie) Tryon, Colgate backfield star from 1923 to 1925, was named today head football coach at Hobart College, which returns to intercollegiate gridiron competition this fall after a three-year lapse.

Director of physical education and athletics of Rutherford, N. J., public schools since 1928, Tryon will report at Hobart, July 1, under a two-year contract.

The 45-year-old coach began his grid career in his home town at Medford, Mass., high school and, following graduation from Colgate in 1926, he played professional football with the New York Yankees for two seasons.

VAN ROBAYS JOINS PIRATES

PITTSBURGH, April 19 (AP)—Outfielder Maurice Van Robays, recently discharged from the Army, joined the Pittsburgh Pirates this morning when they arrived home from their opening series at St. Louis.

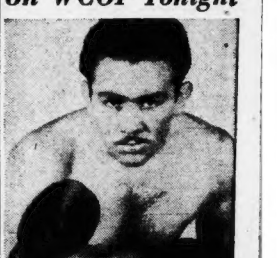
Mexcian Red-Hot on WCOP Tonight



Julio Jimenez, Mexican lightweight who scored a stirring victory over Cleo Shans two weeks ago, makes his most important start tonight when he tangles with Manhattan's seasoned trial horse, Maxie Shapiro (above), in New York.

The fistic firecracker is regarded as the best lightweight to invade the East from below the Rio Grande in many a day. Like most Mexican fighters, he punches constantly and never gives his opponent a moment's rest. He's cagey and in addition to being able to work at close quarters is also effective at long range.

Barrel-chested Maxie Shapiro has met most of the tough customers in his division and defeated among others, Bob Montgomery, Sal Bartolo, Bobby Ruffin and Chester Rico.

Enjoy the excitement, blow-by-blow, on Gillette's Cavalcade of Sports over American Broadcasting Co. and WCOP (1150 on your dial) at 10 p. m.

And remember men . . . LOOK sharp! FEEL sharp! BE sharp! Use Gillette Blue Blades with the sharpest edges ever honed!

N-S Favorites Going Strong

PINEHURST COUNTRY CLUB, N. C., April 19 (INS)—The two favorites of the Pinehurst North-South Golf Tournament continued strong by easily defeating their opponents.

Louise Suggs, of Lithia Springs, Ga., defeated Laddie Irwin, of Glenridge, N. J., 2 up; while defending champion Estelle Lawson Page, beat Helen Siegel of Philadelphia, 3 and 2.

Miss Suggs will meet Charlotte Park in the semi-finals today while Mrs. Page takes on Sally Sessions.

Revamped B's Head for Philly

By FRED HOEY

Our Braves were speeding to Philadelphia today after having sold Max West to the Cincinnati Reds for an unannounced amount of money and the services of Jim Konstanty, rookie right hand pitcher.

The West deal just followed the optioning of three players to the minor leagues. Sebby Sisti, who has been used this season as a utility infielder, went to Indianapolis of the American Ass'n with the stipulation that he work as the regular shortstop; Frank Lamanna, who has been listed as a pitcher with the Braves, went to the Hartford Club of the Eastern League to be used as an outfielder, and Lou Tost, southpaw pitcher, went to Seattle of the Pacific Coast League.

West's departure was a mild surprise even though Bama Rowell, Johnny Hopp and Tommy Holmes seem to have the garden berths sewed up. Max was considered a valuable utility man because he could also play first base. But, with the acquisition of Ray Sanders and the absence of any further plans for first baseman Johnny McCarthy, his services were no longer needed in that role.

Max as been with the Tribe since 1938 when he came from Sacramento where he batted .330 the year before. His best year with the Braves was in 1940 when he clouted for .285 and got 19 home runs. He was the hero of the National League's win in the All-Star game that year when he banged a homer.

Konstanty is a 6.1¼, 200-pound giant, who hails from Worcester, N. Y. He came to the Reds from Syracuse of the International League in 1944, and won six and lost four games before going into the armed forces.

Sisti's going to the Indianapolis club may be the best thing in the world for him. He came up to the Braves too soon and suffered by it because Eddie Miller, then the sensation of the National League, was playing at Sisti's favorite spot. He didn't get a chance to play that position and was shunted all about the infield and never did get started, despite flashes of star-dust.

From the stipulation in the option, it is evident that Manager Southworth has plans for Sisti. The same is true of Lamanna who seems to have sufficient ability as a sticker and fielder, but not enough magic on the mound.

Before leaving town, the Braves were joined by Ray Sanders, first baseman, and pitcher Max Surkont, who were purchased from the Cardinals on the eve of the National League opener here.

Surkont was here in time to dress in a Braves uniform, and get a workout with his new teammates at the Wigwam.

The Braves will arrive in Philly tonight, and will assist Ben Chapman's Phillies lift the National League curtain in Shibe Park tomorrow.

Southworth refused to name his starting pitcher, but it was dollars to doughnuts that big Mort Cooper, who stepped down at the last minute in the Braves' opener here and let Johnny Sain pitch a win over the Dodgers, will test his arm. If Cooper isn't ready veteran Bill Lee, who handcuffed the slugging Red Sox so admirably in the City Series last Saturday, will be the second choice.

Hole-in-One!

OMAHA, April 19 (AP)—Rex Barney, Brooklyn Dodger pitcher who is here awaiting discharge from the Army, went to the golf course and promptly made a hole-in-one on a 175-yard hole No. 13.

Barney will report to the Dodgers in Chicago April 30.

Harvard Tested In Tri Track Meet

Coach Jaakko Mikkola's Harvard track team will enter its first meet tomorrow at 2:30 p. m. in the Stadium when it competes against Tufts and the University of Connecticut in a triangular meet.

Concord's Pete Harwood isn't expected to meet much opposition in the pole vault, nor the Fisher brothers, Will and Jack, in the hammer and discus throws. Also helping to add up points for the Crimson cause will be Herb Fritts, one of Dick Harlow's halfbacks, and Ed Lewis.

For the middle distance Harvard has quarter miler Bob Clark and Fred Withington.

Harvard has three triangular meets this season, plus the IC4A at Annapolis, and one with Yale.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Return of the fifty-cent cup of coffee and the dollar sandwich for Kentucky Derby Day received the OPA's approval yesterday. The Derby will be run May 4.

Eating establishments had been kept down to everyday prices for Derby days since OPA food price ceilings became effective, based on April 4-10, 1943, prices.

Bermuda Holds Lead Over NY Yachtmen

HAMILTON, Bermuda, April 19 (AP)—Bermuda holds an imposing lead in the best-of-seven series of international one-design yacht races by winning for the third time from rival boats of the Larchmont, N. Y., Yacht Club.

In order to keep the series from ending in two days, the contending yachtsmen cancelled the fourth race of the series yesterday and rescheduled it for tomorrow.

Donovan Friend Dies After Row

NEW YORK, April 19 (AP)—David S. Corcoran, 58-year-old importer, died today from injuries received, police said, during a street fight early this morning in Fifth ave. with Arthur Donovan, 54, nationally-known prize fight referee.

Corcoran succumbed at Roosevelt Hospital shortly after 1 p. m., at about the same time Donovan was released in $2500 bail on a felonious assault charge.

The charge was made against Donovan before Corcoran died. At the arraignment, Assistant District Attorney Karl Grebow said a manslaughter charge would be preferred if Corcoran died.

Two patrolmen said they saw Donovan strike Corcoran, causing him to fall and hit his head on the pavement. The two men and Corcoran's son, David S. Corcoran, Jr., 24, had just stepped out of a taxicab shortly after 4 a. m. when the incident took place, the patrolmen said.

Corcoran, who lived at the New York Athletic Club, where Donovan is athletic director, was taken to Roosevelt Hospital.

Police quoted young Corcoran as saying he, his father and Donovan, good friends, had visited several night clubs and taverns during the night.

Arraigned in Felony Court, Donovan was released in $2500 bail set by Magistrate Raphael P. Koenig. Hearing was set for April 26.

Donovan's attorney, Abraham Solomon, told the court:

"Mr. Donovan must have been hit first, for his bridge work is loose."

Suggs-Page Final In Women's N-S Golf

PINEHURST, N. C., April 19 (AP)—Louise Suggs of Lithia Springs, Ga., and Mrs. Estelle Lawson Page of Chapel Hill scored lopsided victories in the semi-finals today of the North and South Women's tournament.

Miss Suggs eliminated Mrs. Catherine Fox Park of Glen Ridge, N. J., 8 and 6. Mrs. Page ousted Sallie Sessions of Muskegon, Mich., 6 and 5.

Mrs. Page, seeking her eighth title in this event, will meet Miss Suggs tomorrow in an 18-hole title match on the 6145-yard No. 1 course.

NEW YORK, April 10—Nearly 60,000 people jammed into the renovated Yankee Stadium this afternoon to welcome Joe DiMaggio, Billy Dickey, Joe Gordon and the other returning GI stars and to see the Yankees inaugurate the home season against the Senators.

A bright sun beamed upon the proceedings, which promised to take the form of a southpaw pitching duel. Joe Page was Joe McCarthy's pitching choice, and he was opposed by Mickey Haefner for Washington.

The start of the game was delayed until after three o'clock out of deference to the Good Friday observances. The first ball was thrown out by a war veteran, Sgt. Hulon Whittington, of Jamaica, L. I., who won the Congressional Medal of Honor while attached to the second armored division in Europe.

FIRST INNING

SENATORS—Gordon threw out Torres. Lewis doubled, Spence doubled, Lewis scoring. Sanford singled, Spence scoring. Travis was hit by a pitched ball. Priddy popped to Gordon. Heath was called out on strikes. TWO RUNS.

YANKEES—Gordon walked. Stirnweiss grounded into a double play, Travis touching second and tossing to Sanford. Henrich fanned. NO RUNS.

SECOND INNING

SENATORS — Evans walked. Haefner forced Evans, Stirnweiss to Grimes. Torres forced Haefner, Stirnweiss to Gordon. Lewis popped to Stirnweiss. NO RUNS.

BROWN BEATS HUSKIES

PROVIDENCE, R. I., April 19 (INS)—The Brown track team boasted today an 85-50 dual meet win over Northeastern University. The Bruins took 11 firsts.

Dom Sustains New Leg Injury

Lone Red Sox regular who is a doubtful starter tomorrow is center fielder Dom DiMaggio. The leadoff man injured his left leg in Dothan, Ala., as the Sox wended their way North, and played the Washington series with his leg tightly bandaged.

He wasn't on the field 10 minutes in Good Friday's batting practice until he was hit on the left knee by one of Clem Dreisewerd's southpaw slants. He was forced to quit on the spot and spent the next hour on Win Green's rubbing table.

Ice packs were prescribed for overnight treatment to reduce the swelling.
